POLICE HEARING

The Reading of the Records Continued Today

"Three men ordered sandwiches and beer; four men ordered pigs' feet and whiskey; one man ordered drink and was refused," and so it went today at the mayor's police board hearing. It was the same old two and sixpence: the same dry reading of the reports of hotel hearings. It is a bit strange perhaps that "beer reading" is dry reading, but it is just the same, especially after some seven hundred pages of it have been read.

The youngest spectator at the hearing is little Johnnie Donehue, whose home is in Moody street, just a few steps from city hall. Johnnie is one of the prettiest and brightest boys in Lowell. He is in his thirteenth year and left the high school in January because of sickness.

He has attended the hearing every day, but he didn't remain long today.

"Why don't somebody have a scrap?" asked Johnnie. "This thing is too dry for anything," and after expressing his appreciation of Mr. Bent as a reader, he went out into the fresh air and the bright sunshine.

The reading will continue all of today and tomorrow and then, perhaps, after some seven hundred pages of it will be a bit lively for a day or two.

HAINS' MOTHER Is to Testify in Her Son's Behalf

FLUSHING, N. Y., May 4.—Mrs. Virginia Hains, the aged mother of Captain Peter Hains, Jr., came to Flushing today to be at hand to testify in her son's behalf at Captain Hains' trial before Judge Garretson in the supreme court here, for the killing of William Andie. It was originally the opinion of the defense to summon Mrs. Hains as their last witness, but her feeble health led to a change in the plans and it was expected that she would be called today to produce any possibility of her not being able to give her testimony.

Effort to show that Captain Hains had at various times prior to the shooting of Andie acted irrationally, was continued by the defense at the opening of today's session. Dr. Hugh A. Hodson, temperily connected with the observation ward of the Queens county hospital, the first witness called, said, that while attending the daughter of Thornton Hains, the defendant's brother, he observed the conduct of Captain Hains at his brother's home on July 4, 1908, and considered the captain's manner and speech at that time irrational.

Thomas West, a colored employee of the government engineering department at Washington, D. C., testified that in 1882 he was steward on the lighthouse tender Pharos. He said Captain Hains when nine years old was on the "Pharos" with his parents one day and he saw him fall down a hatchway fifteen feet to the deck below and strike on his head. The body was rendered unconscious for a long time by the fall, the witness said.

When the old colored man took the witness stand he stood up and asked Lawyer McIntyre where Captain Hains was. Mr. McIntyre pointed the defendant out in court and the witness said: "You don't mean to tell me that man is Captain Hains."

Justice Garretson asked the aged man to sit down.

THE AUTO RACES

The Success of the Great Carnival is Assured

In order to make the proposed automobile carnival to be held in Lowell during the Labor day week one of the most stupendous automobile events in the history of this country the Lowell Automobile club, and especially its president, John O. Heinze, is outlining plans of an unusual nature which include everything conceivable for the fastest course in the country, the best manner of handling the thousands of people who will be attracted to this city by the races, the parking of automobiles about the race course, accommodations for the spectators in the way of witnessing the races, the patrolling of the course and a hundred other details.

The people of Lowell have been promised an event which will go down in history as the greatest event of the present day, and if the affair does not prove to be the success it is intended to be, it will not be the fault of the members of the local club, for no stone will be left unturned.

Already the newspapers throughout the country are boasting the monster carnival, and if the reports of these newspapers can be taken as a criterion, the number of people who will witness the race will be far beyond the conception of the auto club, though the proposed plans for the accommodation of the public are of such an extensive nature that innumerable people can be cared for.

While the present Merrimack Valley course is 10.8 miles, acting on the suggestion of the American Automobile association, it may be lengthened to 15 miles, but this is a matter which has not as yet been definitely decided.

In the event of the course being made longer the additional 4.4 miles of road will be placed in the best of condition in order to insure safety to the dare devil drivers.

The question of entries is of secondary importance for the A. A. A. and A. M. C. M. A. are looking after these details and it is understood that the big difficulty will come in the weeding out of entrants, for up to the present time there have been more entries made than will be allowed on the course. The cream of the drivers will be picked out and the others will be used only in case of the sickness or accident to one of the big drivers.

One of the most important things to be considered is the transportation facilities, but President Heinze believes that he has solved that problem. He feels that the facilities last year were inadequate. In a conversation with a representative of The Sun, President Heinze had the following to say:

"It appeared to me that the most advisable plan would be to construct a pontoon bridge across the river, of sufficient strength for safety, from the rear of the grandstand, between the wind mill and the pumping station, to the other side of the river.

"It would be absolutely up to the Boston & Maine railroad to relieve the congestion at the bridge entrance, by constructing a 500 foot platform, where passengers from their trains would be discharged. A special station would be erected.

"A tunnel would be built under the river, the rear of the grandstand, between the wind mill and the pumping station, to the other side of the river.

It must be impressed upon the people that if they let these spaces, they should first open negotiations with the Lowell Automobile club, for, if there is any revenue the club is entitled to such a percentage as is necessary to help defray the general expenses.

The proposed bridge across the river will be the main entrance to the course

HOLLAND'S PRINCE AND SHIP HE SENDS TO THE HUDSON-FULTON CELEBRATION

AMSTERDAM, Holland, May 4.—Good progress is being made in completing the ship Half Moon, recently launched from the navy yard here. The ship is built of heavy oak timbers and has the high poop and long nosed prow only to be seen in old prints of ancient Dutch and Spanish galleons. She is of about eighty tons, length sixty-three feet, beam eighteen feet, and she draws seven and a half feet of water. Her crew will number twenty men. The Half Moon is being fitted with three masts and sails of ancient pattern, while her armament will consist of several antique cannon handed down from early generations of Dutch adventurers. She will be ready in July and will be shipped on one of the Holland-American liners for transport across the Atlantic. On Sept. 27 she will make her official entry into Sandy Hook, after which she will be handed over to the American committee in charge of the Hudson-Fulton celebration. Prince Henry of the Netherlands heads the committee in charge and will be well constructed. At night it will be beautifully illuminated by electricity, and the fireworks on the evening of Labor day will be set off from it.

To construct such a bridge it will be necessary to obtain permission of the war department, and Congressman Ames will do whatever is in his power to obtain such permission.

While it is too early to pick out the entrants to the race at the present time it is a foregone conclusion that Lancia, the designer of the famous Lancia car, will be here as will be Hilliard, the Boston driver, whose stunts with the Lancia car have won fame for both the driver and the car. Bob Durman and Louis Strang, both of whom appeared in the Labor day race here last year, will be with the Buick outfit, while George Robertson, who drove the Isotta in the Lowell race and afterwards won the Vanderbilt cup race in the Locomobile is sure to come here. Dr. Palma, the dare-devil driver of the Fiat, will be an attraction also.

Following from the Worcester Telegram shows the interest that the people in other cities are taking in the proposed race.

The Lowell automobile men told members of the Worcester automobile club they oiled the road with heavy oil more as an experiment than anything else, and found they had all they desired when the experiment received its first test. They say the ordinary state road isn't a marker to the one they have constructed, at a nominal cost.

"The road isn't oily, as one would suppose. There is no grease to pick up on the machines and nothing to pick up in line of stones, sharp pebbles, and other things to give tire troubles," said See Herbert M. Sawyer of the Worcester automobile club. "It has the appearance of a dull brown rubber surface, but gives more life to machine than a concrete surface without the element of danger a concrete course would give.

"All the Vanderbilt cup racers are to enter the Lowell contest, a fact that gives promise of more speed and excitement than there was last year. That means a lot, too, for the Lowell race of 1908 was about the fastest thing out, and the most exciting.

"The English, Italian, German, and French cars will be there, in fact, I think arrangements for filling their entries have been made. But some of the same cars are to compete in the Worcester events, and others just as speedy that will not enter in the Lowell events.

"There, with one or two endurance runs possible for this fall, in Worcester, a few events by the Boston motor clubs, and Massachusetts, with particular reference to Worcester and Lowell, will class as the foremost automobile centers in the United States.

"None of the Ormond beach affairs, or even the Chicago reliability contests, will show a marker to the Massachusetts events. Everything comes to Massachusetts this year, or I miss my guess. Coming off the Vanderbilt cup race, there is planning for an excursion from that day to Worcester, June 11, for the Dead Horse Hill climb.

"There will be excursions from Boston, Providence, Manchester, N. H., Nashua and from several other cities, and Worcester garages are making preparations for the greatest Jack of all trades Worcester ever saw.

"Automobile clubs representing every car of every automobile factory in the United States will come to Worcester and many from cars are expected.

cap and slippers by his friends. There was a fine musical program rendered and all present had a grand time. Mr. Carcaterra is one of the oldest Italian residents of the city, having lived here for about thirty years. He is a naturalized American citizen and has been engaged in the fruit business for the past fifteen years. He has a brother in Italy who is a colonel in the Italian army and who is prominent in the politics of the country. Mr. Carcaterra will spend some time abroad and expects to travel through Germany extensively.

RELINQUISHES HIS COMMAND

BOSTON, May 4.—Captain K. W. Perry today relinquished command of the United States revenue cutter Gresham after three years of service and proceeded to Milwaukee where he is to command the revenue cutter Tuscarora. An unusual evidence of the regard in which he was held was given when he was transferred to shore from the Gresham in a boat manned by five officers.

RECEIVER ASKED FOR

BOSTON, May 4.—A receiver was asked for in the superior court yesterday for the Boston Banking Co. of 200 Washington street, this city, and Front street. Worcester, by the attorney general, at the request of the attorney commissioners. The bank commissioners claim that the capital of the company was impaired and the rights of the stockholders in jeopardy. The Boston Banking Co. is the Massachusetts agent for the New England Trust Co. of Providence, the president of which, Thomas D. Taylor, is in jail pending a suit by the Rhode Island authorities on the alleged misuse of funds of the Rhode Island institution.

REP. WHITE

DENIES THAT HE ACCUSED ANY SENATORS

BOSTON, May 4.—A retaliatory resolution commenting on the criticism of public bodies was introduced in the house yesterday in opposition to a resolution offered in the senate Friday condemning Rep. Norman H. White of Brooklyn for an interview criticizing the upper branch of the legislature. The resolution today was offered by Rep. Morse of Haverhill and was laid over for action tomorrow.

Mr. White denied on the floor of the house today that he had charged any member of the upper branch with being corrupt and closed by saying that he left his case in the hands of his fellow members of the house.

The senate postponed action on the resolution condemning Mr. White by referring it to the committee on rules.

EX-SECY. STRAUS

TO BE AMBASSADOR TO TURKEY

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Oscar S. Straus, former secretary of commerce and labor, has been selected for ambassador to Turkey and W. W. Rockhill for ambassador to Russia. Mr. Rockhill was formerly assistant secretary of state and later minister to China.

PITCHER MULLIN OF THE DETROIT TIGERS

DETROIT, May 4.—From present indications it looks as if the Detroit Tigers are out to make a runaway race of it in the American league. This time last season the Tigers were in last place, due mostly to the poor work of the pitchers, and it was not until June that the twirlers came into their own. This season it is just the opposite. Nearly all of Jennings' side artists are in splendid condition and twirling grand ball. The work of George Mullin stands out as best. He won the first five games with his clever pitching, allowing but twenty hits. Mullin made his professional debut with the Wabash club of the Indiana and Illinois league in 1898. He continued with the Wabash team in 1899. During the season of 1900 he played with the South Bend (Ind.) Greens, an independent team. In 1901 he was a member of the Fort Wayne Western association team, and he participated in first class boy, in a twelve round bout in Boston tonight provided a native citizen of the Big D does not officiate as referee, and after that mill he will hustle to New York to prepare for a ten round bout with Johnny Frayne at the Fairmont A. C. on Friday night. If Weil wins both fights he will make another attempt to get a forty-five round fight with Nielsen for $5000 a side.

BOXING GOSSIP

A New York sporting man has evolved a novel idea that he thinks will be a big help to boxing. It is a scheme to develop new heavy-weight timber and in that way bring about the resurrection of a class that is far below what it was a decade or so ago when there were numbered in the division such fighters as Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Tom Sharkey, Kid McCoy, Gus Ruhrin, Joe Chynski, Peter Maher, Jim Jeffries or even a few years before that, when Paddy Slavin, Jim Hall, Joe Goddard, Charlie Mitchell, Peter Jackson and Denver Ed Smith were in their prime. There is no denying the fact that today the heavy-weights as a class, are away below par as compared to what they formerly were. There is no accounting for it except that the available timber has not been developed. The average man of today is as large, strong and courageous as he was a decade ago. Few would care to say that the actual fighting science of the time has regressed when compared to that of former days. The conditions are pretty much the same. The fault lies in the fact that fewer large men have taken up the sport than formerly. New faces

Dugan's rough riding is wholly due to his anxiety to win with all his mounts. He never has been accused of dishonesty in spite of the fact that in the past he has ridden for several shady individuals who have since been ruled out of the turf. He is an ambitious youngster and wants to make all the money possible before he is too heavy to accept mounts.

Dugan was greatly disappointed when the English Jockey club refused to grant him a license for this season. He was under contract to ride the Belmont and Whitney horses trained by Jack Joyce on the other side, and he expected to make a name for himself there. His record as a rough rider on the American tracks, however, was the obstacle.

The announcement of the Brooklyn Jockey Club's stakes for the spring meeting, which will be run either at Gravesend or Aqueduct immediately after the Belmont Park session, was received by horsemen at the Long Island tracks as steady. The fact that the Brooklyn Handicap will be run this year as usual, even at the reduced value of $5000, is a source of encouragement. It also means that the historic Silverhand Cup, of similar value, will be renewed at Sheepshead Bay.

In spite of the falling of in-take values here it is a noteworthy fact that the Metropolitan, Brooklyn and Suburban handicaps this year will be the finest of their kind decided on the American or Canadian, which means that the best horses in training will still be seen by New York racing fans.

Several important cases that have a bearing on the racing situation in this state are now under consideration by the court of appeals and the appellate division of the supreme court, and decisions are looked for in the near future.

John Marsh of Whiting was the champion Marathonton Derby at Toronto Saturday, starting the full distance of three and one-half miles in 2:36.57, more than a minute faster than the time set by St. Yves in the big race at the polo grounds a week ago. The Woods of Montreal was second. Meadows of Whiting was third and Fred Simpson, the Indiana was fourth. Marsh, after the race said he probably would be a starter in the International Marathon to be run in New York next Saturday. The entries for that event received so far are those of St. Yves, Apolonia, Carvaldo, Svandor, Dorando, Majorino, Cibot, Orphee and White. Johnny Hayes is expected to start too, but it is understood that Longhast and Smith will meet in a match race at fifteen miles in Montreal on that day.

Freddie Welsh, the much talked of English lightweight, who has fought his way to the upper crust, will indulge in two battles this week which may help the Briton to prove that he has first call on a match with Battling Nelson for the world's championship. Welsh will take on Dave Desler, a pitcher, winning twenty-two. That fall he signed with both the Detroit and Brooklyn clubs of the rival major leagues but finally, after much pulling and hauling, landed with Detroit. No pitcher in the business has a wider curve than Mullin, and few have better judgment and control. He has fine speed, fields his position well and is the heaviest hitting pitcher in the country. Detroit regularly uses him for a pinch start, and he generally makes good.

Musil demonstrated yesterday that a real slab artist must know something else than simply to be able to shoot a ball over the plate. He got him self into a bad hole and then with a last chance to win he threw the game away by not covering first in what should have been an easy out.

Venerable made two sensational stops yesterday and then spoiled each with a bad throw.

Old boy Tom Fleming went into the right garden and showed up well. He made a neat little single and should have had two and he made a throw to the plate from deep right that held back a run.

Up to the eighth, yesterday's game was one of the quickest, sharpest and cleanest that any man could desire.

James Boardman played the game of his life on third for Haverhill yesterday. He had seven sharp chances without an error.

It was no reflection on Duval that he didn't scratch Haverhill in the eighth for he had not warmed up.

Catcher Smith looks good behind the bat.

After coaching some 17 spectators with foul tips, Musil pushed out a Texas leaguer and was so surprised that he almost forgot to run to first.

Umpire McLaughlin, a husky blonde from Providence, who looks like a middleweight champion, inspired the game yesterday and gave as fine an exhibition as one could desire. He didn't miss anything, not even a Haverhill man cutting a base and he had several hard decisions to make. He has a voice that would make a grand opera singer sit up and take notice.

Dave Pickett did not appear in a Haverhill uniform, and with an outfit like Taylor, Briggs and Courtney, his chances are rather "remote."

The Haverhill team will bear watching this year, for it has the right man at the head in Frank Connaughton, and the management is wise enough to let him be the boss. He has a base ball general and a gentleman and can get the work out of his players.

They are doing without the services of an official scorer in Lowell. Who knows what somebody is batting down there?—Boston Post.

PAUL BUTLER

FOUR ARRESTS

To be Paid by U. S. Government
Were Made by U. S. Marshal Henkel

A bill was introduced by Senator Crane providing for the relief of Paul Butler of Lowell. The measure proposes to pay Mr. Butler $323,72 as compensation for the use by the government between 1874 and 1880 of a firearms improvement invented by him. The compensation is figured on the basis of eight cents for each article.

HAS BOUGHT PATENTS.

BERLIN, May 4.—The German Motor Aircraft Co. today confirmed the report that it has purchased the patents of the Wright aeroplane for Germany, but says that the sum of $150,000 mentioned in the despatches from Paris is excessive.

AERIAL NAVY LEAGUE.

STUTTGART, May 4.—At a meeting held here today of the Wurtemberg Aerial navy league, a representative of Count Zeppelin declared that the company formed in connection with the Zeppelin Airship Construction Co. had undertaken to establish a regular line of airships from Lucerne or Friederichshafen to North Germany via Frankfort-on-the-Main. The actual route to be adopted will depend on the offers made by cities on the line of landing places. It is hoped to open the road for traffic next year.

Miss Mae McCaffee, of Jamaica Plain, who has been the guest of Miss Marguerite Lang of Salem street, has returned to her home. While here Miss McCaffee was a guest at the flight school party.

Here's Lowell testimony.

Mrs. Lizzie Nevins, living at 123 Lawrence street, Lowell, Mass., says: "Some years ago I gave a statement for publication, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills after they had cured me of a severe attack of backache. The cure has since proven to be a permanent one and I have had no occasion to resort to any kidney remedy. I cheerfully advise anyone suffering from kidney disorders to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

NEW YORK, May 4.—Four arrests were made today by United States Marshal Henkel on charges arising out of the seizure of smuggled trunks at this port about a year ago. The persons taken into custody were George White, dealer in dressmakers' supplies, Forty-Fifth street and Fifth avenue; Lorne B. Walker, a former employee of the customs department, W. H. Kilgannon, former salesman for George F. Crowley, West Thirty-fourth street and Elizabeth Kilgannon, his wife. The four were arraigned before Justice Hough in the United States circuit court.

SPECIAL MEETING

Chelmsford Voters Discuss School Matters

"What's White going to do with these 50 North Chelmsford pupils?" was the question that the voters were asking after last evening's town meeting, while it was also voted that while Gabriel Andolin is a good talker he couldn't talk enough to get a schoolhouse.

A special town meeting with a warrant containing 11 articles drew a fair sized representation of voters to the town hall, last evening. Town Clerk Robbins called to order and J. Adams Bartlett took his time honored position behind the gavel.

Of the 11 articles only three got by, the others being dismissed. Article 5 called for insurance on the school buildings at the Centre and North Chelmsford, and it was voted to appropriate $500 for $25,000 insurance on the schools for three years.

Under article 8 the salary of the tax collector was raised from $500 to $550.

Under article 10, an appropriation of $25 was made for the purchase of a topnotch for the flagpole at the Centre.

Article 11—to see if the town will accept conveyance from Mrs. Oscar N. Kyle and Mrs. Jos. A. Parkhurst, or whoever the owners thereof may be, of a certain lot of land containing 66,000 square feet known as "The Park," situated in West Chelmsford between High street and Pine street, was accepted.

All the other articles were dismissed, and "Gab" Andolin's article, to see if the town will vote to buy one or two lots of land at the North village and build a school house upon one or upon each of them, choose a building committee, and raise appropriate or borrow a sufficient sum of money to pay for the same, or act in relation thereto, went down by a vote of 51 to 0.

Several articles referred to school improvements and all were turned down.

People's Cut
Price

That we often feel that we are too easily satisfied and charge too small a profit. We know "regular price" is a very elastic term and is often used to deceive prospective buyers. But when we use the term, we mean OUR regular price. That is, a fair margin of profit added to the cost of goods—a profit that every furniture dealer MUST have to pay expenses. And he must do a good business at that; turn his stock over frequently; buy right; discount his bills; keep his expenses down—in fact, handle his business in a business way or go to the wall. When others advertise cut from THEIR regular price, we find that their cut price is much higher than OUR regular price, or they are stretching the truth to the breaking point. Don't be deceived by "buncome." But when you want to buy any Furniture, Carpets or Stoves, go to a place where you know you will be used square and fair, and where the price is always right from Kitchen Chairs to Parlor Suites. And that place is

PEACE CONGRESS POOR BUSINESS

The Work of Women Not to Hold Mr. Greene on Park Board Was Discussed

CHICAGO, May 4.—Discussion of the commercial and industrial aspects of universal and permanent peace was the feature of today's session of the second national peace congress in this city. Special sessions were set apart for consideration of women's work in the interests of peace and for the part which universities and colleges have played in the great problem.

The women's session was held under the auspices of the Chicago Women's club. Mrs. Ellen Herrington of this city presided. Mrs. Lucia Amos Mead of Boston spoke on "Five dangerous fallacies." She said in part:

"The world surely will see during this century an international police; but rival nations and armies are doomed. Those monstrous anachronisms of civilization must be turned into beneficial messengers of commerce."

"Human nature is changing, but whether it changes or not the business of the world will not much longer tolerate two nations making a cockpit of the people's highways and dragging neutral nations into commercial loss. A comparatively few influential countries can and will end international war. It is entirely a question of statesmanship."

TURKISH CABINET

The Makeup of the New Ministry

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 4.—The new cabinet probably will be organized as follows:

Grand vizier—Hilmi Pasha.

Minister of the Interior—Ferid Pasha.

Minister of Justice—Kakki Pasha.

Minister of public instruction—Azmi Bey.

Minister of mines and forests—Arslan Pasha.

The other ministries will be retained by the last incumbents. Both Kakehi Pasha and Azmi Bey are members of the committee of union and progress, and it is expected that this cabinet being thus brought into harmony with the present political situation will have a long lease of power.

GRAND SCENE

AT RECEPTION TO OFFICERS OF JAPANESE CRUISERS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—The scene at the Fairmont hotel last evening during the reception of the officers of the Japanese cruisers was a bewildering array of color, the black of civilians serving as an excellent background for the varicolored gowns of women and the blue and gold lace of American and Japanese officers.

At the supper following the reception admissions were made by Japanese Consul General Naigi, Rear Admirals Toshi and Swinburne, Gov. Gillett, Gen. P. Weston, John P. Shiras, naval officer of the port of San Francisco, and others.

"I regret that my English is so poor," said the Japanese admiral, "that I can not express to you all that I feel in my heart, and for this reason I am instructing all my young men to learn foreign languages in order that under similar circumstances they may be fully able to express their thoughts. At the same time you will understand that I am grateful even if I cannot say so fully as I would."

W. W. ROCKHILL
TO BE AMBASSADOR TO RUSSIA

ST. PETERSBURG, May 4.—The appointment of W. W. Rockhill to present the American minister to China to succeed John Riddle as ambassador to Russia is thoroughly satisfactory to the foreign office which is pleased that the United States is determined to entrust the St. Petersburg post to one of the most experienced diplomats in the service.

The Russian government was sound several days ago through Baron Rosen, the ambassador at Washington, regarding the acceptability of Mr. Rockhill and it lost no time in responding that he was persona grata.

Acting minister of foreign affairs Tschakoff today spoke appreciatively of Mr. Riddle whose thorough knowledge of the Russian language and acquaintance with Russian life and character have made him particularly valuable as an ambassador.

Mr. Riddle, who is retiring to private life, has not yet settled his future plans. He has been approached to accept the chair of international law at a prominent American university and now has this proposal under consideration.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERS
WASHINGTON, May 4.—The spring meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers convened here today and will continue in session until Friday. When Jesse M. Smith of New York formally opened the convention nearly 400 leaders in the profession were present. Various engineering problems are to be dealt with in exhaustive addresses.

Many plans for the entertainment of the visiting engineers have been made. President Taft will receive them at the White House before adjournment and under special arrangement with the war department an exhibition drill of troops at Fort Myer will be witnessed by the members of the society. If conditions are favorable an ascension of a dirigible balloon will be made at the fort.

LUU AND HARTFORD

Not to Hold Mr. Greene on Park Board

That the mayor did not re-appoint Harvey B. Greene to the park commission does not meet with public favor. The public, so far as we have been able to test the sentiment, believes that Mr. Greene should be allowed to continue on the board.

If it were necessary to make a change the mayor probably could not make a more popular appointment than that of Mr. Henry A. Smith whom he has appointed, but the sentiment in favor of retaining Mr. Greene is very strong.

It is very generally conceded that

Mr. Greene is the right man in the right place as park commissioner and it would be very difficult to replace him. The very nature of his business is argued, makes him a most valuable man on the board and he has shown the greatest interest in the work of the commission.

The mayor's appointment of Henry

A. Smith to succeed Mr. Greene goes to the board of aldermen tonight and it looks as if the aldermen would refuse confirmation. Aldermen with whom a reporter for The Sun talked

this forenoon spoke in the highest terms of Mr. Smith, but they expressed themselves as in favor of retaining

LOWELL VS. BOSTON.

The Boston boomers are to exploit Boston as the city of all New England. That does not agree with Humphrey O'Sullivan's idea that Lowell is ahead of Boston in many important respects. Lowell agrees with Mr. O'Sullivan on this proposition.

JAIL THE SUGAR MAGNATES.

The sugar trust detected in defrauding the government out of something like $9,000,000, tries to discharge its responsibility by paying back two millions. Why is not the sugar trust proceeded against same as a man detected in smuggling jewelry or any other dutiable article? The sugar magnates should be jailed the same as any other offender found trying to defraud the government.

JAIL SENTENCES EFFECTIVE.

The best treatment for the reckless chauffeurs is a jail sentence. Where a few such sentences have been handed out the reform has been rapid. Nothing else will restrain the very ambitious young men who are nowadays placed in charge of automobiles. The offenders against the speed law are not residents of Lowell, but parties who pass through on a journey, it may be between Boston and points north, as far as Montreal and the White Mountains. In other cases the owners of machines set out on day tours, starting in the morning and returning at night. They, too, go at a rapid rate and generally show a desire for fast driving while passing through cities or towns.

AN UNWISE APPOINTMENT.

With all due respect to Mayor Brown, we believe he made a grave mistake when he named Henry A. Smith for the park board to succeed Harvey B. Greene. In saying this we do not reflect upon the ability of Mr. Smith but we assert that a man so eminently qualified and who has given such devoted and valuable service as has Mr. Greene should not be removed for any whim. The park board will be injured by the substitution of Mr. Smith for Mr. Greene.

What is the reason for refusing to reappoint Mr. Greene? The board of aldermen should not sanction the change because it will injure the cordial and harmonious working of the board. Mr. Smith has a splendid field for the exercise of his efforts as president of the board of trade in which he is doing excellent work.

THE BOSTON HERALD'S CHANGE.

The Boston Herald's decision to drop the afternoon field is probably a choice of evils. The old saying "between two stools we come to the ground" may have impressed itself very forcibly upon the Herald management. There is no doubt whatever that better results are obtained by newspapers devoting themselves solely to one field, whether it be the morning or the afternoon field. Both are so separate and distinct that each should receive the attention of a separate and distinct staff. It is difficult to convince anybody that the afternoon edition of a morning paper is much more than a belated morning paper. Had the Herald given less attention to editorial discussion and put the same amount of brains into the work of the afternoon editions, it might have been able to compete successfully with the Boston Globe. The Globe's policy of non-committalism on all the burning issues of the day, does not seem to affect its sales or its value as an advertising medium, although it saves the expense of a very able corps of editorial writers. The time may soon come, however, when the Globe will imitate the Herald in the abandonment of the afternoon field.

TAXING THE BRITISH ARISTOCRACY.

The chancellor of the British Exchequer has submitted his budget for the current year. As was expected, it calls for an increased amount of taxes. Indeed the amount is unprecedented but the increase is not to come out of the plain people but out of landed aristocracy and upper middle classes which in the past have escaped the burden of taxation. The principle of the income tax is extended so as to fall far more heavily than formerly on the classes mentioned. This tax has repeatedly been condemned as unfair to the heads of families, and to meet that objection the sum of $50 is allowed for each child in the family. This scheme will be regarded as aimed at the aristocracy of England, and it will bring to a crisis the movement against the house of lords as at present constituted. Should the lords reject the bill the situation will become quite strained. The British public is solidly set against the house of lords, against the landed aristocracy and will not much longer brook their domination.

The amount to be raised is $4,500,000,000, an enormous sum for a government that represents only about 32,000,000 people. It would almost stagger the average American who stands against when congress dispenses with much over a fourth of the amount. This is a distinctly new tendency in taxation in England. Formerly the burdens have been heaped upon the poorer classes, but now they shift to the aristocracy and upper middle class that has a very considerable income from various sources. The British Budget has a lesson that might well be taken to heart by our American legislators. Here through the offices of the tariff the bulk of the taxes is extorted from the poorer classes while vast incomes are allowed to pile up until they menace the government and set the people at defiance. England has no tariff and hence she must draw a large portion of her revenues from direct taxation.

The income tax is needed in this country to compel the rapid accumulation of wealth in the hands of the few and to force the owners of wealth to contribute their proportion of that wealth to the support of the government. The English experiment projected by the Asquith ministry will be watched with interest. It introduces a new remedy for the elite aristocracy which for generations has been existing in idleness on the earnings of the poorer classes without themselves producing anything useful.

SEEN AND HEARD.

SELF HELP

Methinks God must be oft dismayed Hearing how much our ills have proved, Seeing the little that we do To make the prayers we pray come true.

And so I have resolved no more To ask for blessings from this store Until my energetic soul, Has searched life's every nook and shelf.

And after I have done my best And make an unremittant quest, And hunted high, and hunted low, Then unto God my prayers shall go.

I would fain for one moment ask A mortal friend to do my task. Then why on my Creator shirk, My rightful portion of the work?

An idle mendicant—no more, Is he who begs at heaven's door Earth with body, soul and mind He seeks, himself, life's gifts to find. Ella Wheeler Wilcox in "March Nautilus."

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Ex-President Castro is receiving much attention at the hands of the Paris press in the form of anecdotes, all of which aim to make him ridiculous. Many of the stories are palpably imaginary. Among those published in Figaro the following, under the head "Ex-Libris Castro," has been widely circulated: "The Venezuelan wanted a library for his villa and bought one. To house it he had a great room on the ground floor fitted with shelves and gave orders that the big books be placed in rows on the lower shelves, the medium sized books over them and the small ones high up. The cabinet work was finished and the books were unpacked. Then it was discovered that the big books were too tall for the shelves. Old Castro call in his carpenters to re-arrange the woodwork? No—not he. He simply cut the books off to fit, and there they are."

Professor of archaeology and director of the Schleswig-Holstein Museum of Antiquities at Kiel is the full title of Johanna Mestorf, who celebrated her eightieth birthday on April 1. In referring to the anniversary, in which literary and scientific circles of Germany were interested, a biographer says: "Franziska Mestorf was born at Brunsbüttel, Holstein, and never married. Mythology and archaeology were her favorite studies from early youth, and her first great work was the translation of the Swedish archaeological literature into German. In 1851 she succeeded Professor Dankelman in the place which she now occupies."

Professor Trevor Kincaid of Boston is now on his way to Russia to collect parasites for the gypsy and brown tail moths. Speaking of his plans after visiting the infested sections near Boston, he said: "In the past the shipments of parasites which have come here from Russia have been in poor condition. Having been delayed on the trip owing to the red tape of the government. One of the purposes of my trip to Russia will be to see if we cannot have put into operation the same system of shipments as are now used in sending parasites from Japan. We know there are three principal parasites in Russia that we want, and a great many more that we may find useful in our work here. I expect to remain in Russia until the middle of July, and then to go to Japan for further work there for a time."

Even Miss Schumann-Heink, the tireless, has succumbed to the labor and excitement of six months of appearances in opera and concert in Europe. She has, it seems, abruptly cancelled the engagements that remained to her in France and Belgium and departed for America, here until autumn.

Dr. William Oster, regius professor of medicine at Oxford university and formerly professor of medicine at John Hopkins university, has returned to America. Professor Oster, who has been established at Oxford for three years, endeavored to return to the country as often as possible, but as he is very fond of his old associations. While here he will visit Johns Hopkins at Baltimore, and friends in Philadelphia, New York and Boston.

The various churches in Wales are reporting a notable reaction from the revival of three years ago. English Baptists in Wales have a normal annual increase in membership of about eight thousand. In 1903, the year of the revival, their gain was nearly 31,000. In 1907 the net loss was 4,804, and last year it was 3,699.

The pianist during the evening was Miss Sarah Clement.

The selectmen of the town of Dracut have given Michael Dingley leave to withdraw on his petition for a pool and bidding license in Dracut. Mr. Dingley applied for a license in the Navy Yard district and inasmuch as there was considerable remonstrance to the granting expressed a hearing was held Friday night before the selectmen, the result being that the board of selectmen decided that the granting of such a license would not be for the best interests of the town and gave Mr. Dingley leave to withdraw.

A special town meeting will be held a week from Thursday night to consider the order of the county commissioners for the proposed improvement and extension of the county highway in Bridge street. The commissioners recommended this extension and improvement in the early part of the year and the town was asked to raise $1,000 for the work. When the matter was brought to the attention of the voters at the annual town meeting the appropriation was voted down. The commissioners have now taken the initiative and have estimated that the work will cost about $12,000 and the voters at this special town meeting, scheduled for one week from Thursday, will be asked to borrow that amount of money to carry out the extension as ordered.

The following articles are also in the warrant:

Article 3 asks that the selectmen be relieved to make contracts under the supervision of the county commissioners for the extension of Bridge street.

Article 4—To see if the town will vote to rescind the vote of the annual town meeting whereby it was voted to expend $500 in rebuilding the old Maydew bridge.

This is upon petition of Otto P. O'Conor and others who live in the vicinity of the bridge and who propose that the road leading to the bridge be straightened and widened and the location of the bridge changed to meet the alterations.

Article 5—To see if the town will vote to authorise and instruct the selectmen to buy or pay the bonds of the town treasurer and tax collector.

The recent town meeting exacted from both officials the furnishing of means of $100 each.

LOST RIGHT ARM FATALLY BURNED

Man Was Awarded a Verdict of Mrs. Larrault Dropped a Lighted Lamp

$8500

BOSTON, May 4.—For the loss of his right arm, James E. Bagby, a plumber of East Boston, was given a verdict for $500 against the Wonderland company and his former employer, the Atchrich & Shear Construction company, by a jury before Judge Fessenden, in the first session of the superior court yesterday.

While working for his employer at Wonderland on June 13, 1906, he was directed to fix some valves on the chutes, and while on a narrow passage way between the tracks he slipped upon some oil which escaped from a leaky cup and his right arm got caught in the cog of the operating machinery. His arm was crushed and had to be amputated. He sued for $25,000.

Mrs. Emma T. Gorsell was given a verdict for $500 against the County Savings Bank of Chelsea, by direction of Judge Crosby, in the sixth jury session. She sued for a deposit which stood in the name of her name. It was made up of the proceeds of real estate. Her husband, Dr. Richard Gorsell, a druggist, by claim to the deposit, claimed the real estate was his own. But it had been found by the court that the property belonged to her before her marriage, she had been in the military service.

The Sun Rich R. company of Saugus, recovered a verdict for $2750 against the J. P. E. Manufacturing company of Fitchburg in the seventh jury session before Judge Deacon. The suit was for damages for breakage of a warranty in the sale of a 55 horse to life bricks.

TWO MEN HANGED

At Andover, N. B. for Murder of Jewelry Peddler

One of the Men Confessed to the Crime and Said $2600 was the Booty Taken From the Murdered Man

ANDOVER, N. B., May 4.—As the words "and deliver us from all evil" fell from the priest's lips Antiole Arska and Leon Seppiell dropped through a trap at the Victoria county jail in the early morning light today, and paid the penalty for the crime of murdering a jewelry peddler to secure his money and merchandise. It was the first double execution in the history of the province, but the arrangements were so complete that the entire affair was free from interruption and death in both instances was instantaneous. The condemned men sank into a troubled sleep after a restless night at 3 a. m., only to be aroused two hours later to make preparations for the final stage.

After holy communion had been administered Public Executioner Radcliffe announced that the time for the execution had arrived. One behind the others with hands pinioned, the two men began the death march. It was hardly a moment when they were upon the scaffold. As they still stood one behind the other on the trap the legs of the men were strapped and the black caps were pulled on, hiding the light of day from their eyes forever. Father Ryan, who had been their spiritual companion, then began the recital of the Lord's prayer with the two men standing like statues awaiting the end. As the words "from all evil" were spoken a sharp click was heard and the two bodies disappeared through the trap. The Ark of Peril pronounced death instantaneous in both cases.

A company of a dozen saw the execution. Edward Green was murdered last summer on a lonely road near Peterborough and his pack of jewelry carried off. Shortly after Arska and Seppiell, who were employed on the railroad nearby, were arrested and following their confession Arska confessed stating that about $2500 in cash was the booty taken from Green. Nearly all of it was recovered.

AWARDED GOLD MEDAL

LONDON, May 4.—There was a demonstration of enthusiasm, remarkable in its character, at the Institution of Civil Engineers last night, when the Aeronautical Society of Great Britain conferred on Wilbur and Orville Wright, the aeroplaneists of Dayton, O., its first gold medal. Those who had gathered at the institution to witness the presentation cheered and applauded repeatedly, while the Wright brothers blushingly bore their honors through an hour of the warmest enthusiasm.

DIED IN STREET

Jas. E. White Succumbs to Heart Disease

The many friends of James E. White of 198 Shaw street, a retired mill overseer, will be pained to learn of his sudden death which occurred last evening in Westford street as he was returning from a meeting of Mt. Herab Royal Arch chapter, of which he was a member.

Mr. White was walking along the sidewalk when he was seen to fall by Leon Hitchcock of 282 Westford street. The latter with a friend ran to his assistance and picked him up. He had struck his head on the curb, sustaining a large cut on the forehead. Dr. Sweetser was called from his home nearby, but upon his arrival the man was dead. At this time an auto passed rapidly down the street and this fact, together with the cut on Mr. White's forehead, gave rise to a widespread but inaccurate rumor that he had been run down and killed by an automobile.

The body was removed to the establishment of J. F. O'Donnell & Sons, where it was identified by means of Masonic emblems in his pockets. His relatives were immediately notified.

He was about 75 years of age, and had been retired for over three years. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Willard E. Reynolds, with whom he lived at 198 Shaw street, and two other daughters, Mrs. Annie Perkins of this city and Miss Jessie E. White of Boston, at present connected with the Boston V. M. C. A. school. He was a Knight Templar, belonging to a commandery in the south.

The banquet committee appointed in connection with the 25th anniversary of the Burkes Temperance Institute reported that arrangements were about completed for the event, which takes place on Wednesday evening, May 12. According to the plans as announced by the committee, the members and friends will meet at the rooms of the society in the Union bank building at 7 o'clock, and meet with the spiritual director, Rev. Hugh McDermott, who will hold a reception until 7:30, after which they will go to the scene of the festivities in Harrington Hall, Central street. The principal address of the evening will be delivered by Dr. McDermott, who has chosen the subject "Temperance" as his theme. His ability to handle the question is well known and an interesting discourse is promised those who attend. It is the intention of the members and their friends to present the above named gentleman with a substantial testimonial, in recognition of the many good deeds performed by him during his stay in this city.

The tickets being limited, it is advisable for the friends of the society to procure them at once, as only a small number remain.

BURNING CHILD

Gave the Alarm of Fire in Amesbury

AMESBURY, May 4.—A fire which threatened the destruction of a large double dwelling and the lives of two children, Mary Louise Poulin, aged 4, daughter of Joseph Poulin of Elm street, and Mary Anna Dessert, aged 6, of the same house, broke out about 4:30 yesterday afternoon at the Poulin home.

The first knowledge of the blaze was when the Dessert child ran into her home with her hair in flames crying out that the house was on fire. Before the mother and older sister could enter the other part of the house occupied by the Poulin's, the flames and smoke had so filled the centre of the tenement that it was only with great difficulty that they could grope their way about the rooms.

The cry went up that the Poulin child had been seen at an upper window, and volunteers forced an entrance through the same, but no child could be found.

After diligent search several citizens fought their way through those rooms which could be entered, and after many minutes of great suspense on the part of the hundreds of citizens who were watching the progress of the blaze, Joseph Soucy and Louis White were successful in finding the Poulin child on a bed in a room adjoining the one in which the fire was raging the fiercest.

The little one was unconscious when brought out. It was rushed to the office of a physician, where later it recovered sufficiently to be carried to the home of a neighbor. The Dessert child was burned about the head and face, but not dangerously.

The house was badly damaged on the Poulin side. The cause of the blaze is attributed to the children.

Mrs. Poulin said that she had stepped out of doors, leaving the two children in the kitchen. Near the stove she had left a can of kerosene, and the children, in playing with this, had spilled some upon the floor. Later, in taking a piece of burning paper from the stove, they dropped it upon the oily floor, which immediately became ignited and the room was in flames.

NIGHT EDITION SMITH DECLINES

Would Not Accept Place on the Park Board

Henry A. Smith, president of the Lowell board of trade, who was appointed a member of the park commission, by Mayor Brown, has declined to accept the office.

In conversation with a representative of The Sun, Mr. Smith had the following to say relative to the appointment:

"I had no intimation whatever that my name was to be used in connection with the park commission appointment until it had been placed upon the news bulletins."

"The time I am already giving to my civic work together with my business interests, which need constant attention, make it impossible for me to take up any additional responsibilities."

"I greatly appreciate that the mayor considers me capable of filling so important a position, and take the place of one so evidently fitted for its duties, but I have, in an interview with Mayor Brown today, been obliged to decline the honor he has so generously tendered me."

Mayor Brown, after learning that Mr. Smith would not accept, reappointed Harvey B. Greene, who has filled the position in a capable manner for a number of years.

POLICE HEARING

The Reading of the Records Continued Today

Three men ordered sandwiches and beer; four men ordered pigt feet and whiskey; one man ordered drinks and was refused," and so it went today at the mayor's police board hearing. It was the same old board and the same old reading of the reports of hotel hearings. It is a bit strange perhaps that "beer reading" is dry reading, but it is just the same, especially after some seven hundred pages of it have been read.

The youngest spectator at the hearing is little Johnnie Donohoe, whose home is in Moody street. Just a few steps from city hall, Johnnie is one of the prettiest and brightest boys in Lowell. He is in his thirteenth year and left the high school in January because of sickness.

He has attended the hearing every day but he didn't remain long today.

"Why don't somebody have a scrap?" asked Johnnie. "This thing is too dry for anything," and after expressing his appreciation of Mr. Bent as a reader, he went out into the fresh air and the bright sunshine.

The reading will continue all of today and tomorrow and then, perhaps, it will be a bit lively for day or two,

HAINS' MOTHER

Is to Testify in Her Son's Behalf

FLUSHING, N. Y., May 4.—Mrs. Virginia Hains, the aged mother of Captain Peter Hains, Jr., came to Flushing today to be at hand to testify in her son's behalf at Captain Hains' trial before Judge Garretson in the supreme court here, for the killing of William Annis. It was originally submitted to the defense to summon Captain Mrs. Hains as their last witness, but her feeble health led to a change in the plans and it was expected that she would be called today to preclude any possibility of her not being able to give her testimony.

Effort to show that Captain Hains had at various times prior to the shooting of Annis acted irrationally, was continued by the defense at the opening of today's session. Dr. Hugh A. Rodden, formerly connected with the observation ward of the Queens county hospital, the first witness called, said that while attending the daughter of Thornton Hains, the defendant's brother, he observed the conduct of Captain Hains at his brother's home on July 4, 1908, and considered the captain's manner and speech at that time irrational.

Thomas West, a colored employee of the government engineering department at Washington, D. C., testified that in 1882 he was steward on the lighthouse tender Phares. He said Captain Hains when nine years old was on the "Phares" with his parents one day and he saw him fall down a hatchway fifteen feet to the deck below and strike on his head. The body was rendered unconscious for a long time by the fall the witness said.

When the old colored man took the witness stand he stood up and asked lawyer McIntyre where Captain Hains was. Mr. McIntyre pointed the defendant out in court and the witness said:

"You don't mean to tell me that man is Captain Hains?"

Justice Garretson asked the aged man to sit down.

FOUND GUILTY WAS TAKEN ILL

Jordan Convicted of Murder in First Degree

CAMBRIDGE, May 4.—Looking straight into the eyes of the jury, Chester S. Jordan of Somerville, apparently unmoved, heard the fatal words, "Guilty of murder in the first degree," as the twelve men shortly after noon today announced the result of their nineteen hours' deliberation over the murder of Jordan's wife, Bernice, in Somerville on September first last. By his side sat his venerable father, nearby were his sisters and several other relatives, all of whom were scarcely able to keep back their tears, while strangely enough a score of women spectators cried and sobbed as if the young man who stood like a white marble statue was their own brother.

Jordan's lawyers immediately announced their determination to carry the case to the highest court in the land.

For fourteen days the jury heard the evidence, much of it of a gruesome nature, of the discovery of Mrs. Jordan's dismembered body in a trunk, with Jordan sitting by its side after an ineffectual attempt to ship it by steamer to New York. They heard the government's theory of the murder in which it was claimed that Jordan had struck his wife with a baton, strangled her and then cut her throat, followed by the cutting up of the body.

The defense tried hard to show that Jordan was insane and the court ruled that the government must show that Jordan was sane at the time of the murder.

While a great mass of exhibits, including photographs of parts of the body, the jury retired at 5:30 last night and spent the greater portion of the night in debate. When they went to breakfast today three of the number seemed to be the targets of the other nine. It was apparent that these three gave in during the forenoon, for at 12 o'clock word was sent to the court that the defense had been reached.

The lawyers were summoned, the family assembled, the courtroom filled rapidly with spectators, many of them women, and Jordan was brought over from the nearby jail. He seemed the picture of the twelve men as they filed into the room and took their places in the jury box. Then he stood up also and with his hand raised read the Declaration of Independence.

6 O'CLOCK FOUR LIVES LOST

Eight Barges Destroyed During a Storm off Faulkner's Island

NEW HAVEN, May 4.—Four persons were drowned and a total of eight barges lost during a fierce storm last night off Faulkner's Island. Word of the disaster was brought to this city by the tug Holland.

The four persons drowned were the captain of the barge Susquehanna in tow of the tug Charles R. Sanford, his wife, a cabin boy, and a deck hand. The barge had been blown ashore on Faulkner's Island and the party so far as can be learned, had attempted to save themselves by taking to the small boat. This, however, had been smashed against the side of the barge and the four drowned, one of the bodies, it was said, had been recovered, but this could not be verified.

The Sanford was proceeding from New York to Providence with a tow of nine barges and while on Faulkner's Island ran into a heavy gale. She attempted to go ahead but the hawsers parted, four of the barges, the Moose, Susquehanna, Wyoming and Antimite, drifting away. Two of these later sank, the Susquehanna went on the rocks, and the Wyoming was later recovered.

THE AUTO RACES

The Success of the Great Carnival is Assured

In order to make the proposed automobile carnival to be held in Lowell during the Labor day week one of the most stupendous automobile events in the history of this country the Lowell Automobile club, and especially its president, John O. Heinze, is outlining plans of an unusual nature which include everything conceivable for the tastiest course in the country, the best manner of handling the thousands of people who will be attracted to this city by the races, the parking of automobiles about the race course, accommodations for the spectators in the way of witnessing the races, the patrolling of the course and a hundred and one other details.

The people of Lowell have been promised an event which will go down in history as the greatest event of the present year, and if the affair does not prove to be a success, it is intended to be, it will not be the fault of the members of the local club, for no stone will be left unturned.

Already the newspapers throughout the country are glooming the monster carnival, and if the reports of these newspapers can be taken as a criterion, the number of people who will witness the race will be far beyond the conception of the auto club, though the proposed plans for the accommodation of the public are of such an extensive nature that innumerable people can be cared for.

While the present Merrimack Valley course is 10.6 miles, acting on the suggestion of the American Automobile association, it may be lengthened to 15 miles, but that is a matter which has not as yet been definitely decided.

In the event of the course being made longer the additional 4.4 miles of road will be placed in the best of condition in order to insure safety to the dare devil drivers.

The question of entries is of secondary importance for the A. A. A. and A. M. C. M. A. are looking after these details and it is understood that the big difficulty will come in the weeding out of entrants, for up to the present time there have been more entries made than will be allowed on the course.

The cream of the drivers will be picked out and the others will be used only in case of the sickness or accident to one of the big drivers.

One of the most important things to be considered is the transportation facilities, but President Heinze believes that he has solved that problem. He feels that the facilities last year were inadequate. In conversation with a representative of The Sun, President Heinze had the following to say:

"It appealed to me that the most advisable plan would be to construct a pontoon bridge across the river, of sufficient strength for safety, from the rear of the grandstand, between the wind mill and the pumping station, to the other side of the river.

"It would be absolutely up to the Boston & Maine railroad to relieve the congestion at the bridge entrance, by constructing a 500 foot platform, where passengers from their trains would be discharged. A special station would be erected.

"A tunnel would be built under the Boston & Maine tracks, the lower end of which would be on a level with the field and the bridge. Thus people would be brought directly to within five minutes' walk of the grandstand and the main part of the course, with an entire lack of congestion. This would be the main entrance to the course.

The carrying capacity of the Boston & Northern would be increased also, for the double tracks would aid here. They would run their cars from Merrimack square, past the Middlesex street station, to the main entrance, and then pass down to the city again on the other track.

"There would be the easiest way, for pedestrians and the thousands of automobiles which will come will have practically the right of way through Varnum avenue, which would relieve the congestion there.

"Not far from this main entrance, there are two quarter-mile railroad sidings, and all special Pullman trains coming from New York, all parts of New England and the west would be sidetracked there. It would be like moving so many hotels up there, for the people could live in them while the races were on.

"I went up to this place yesterday afternoon with Architect Graves, and we agreed that although the cost would be high, still it is the only feasible way that the thing could be managed. If this plan is adopted, as it must be, it will make the finest accommodation for the sightseeing public of any race course in the United States.

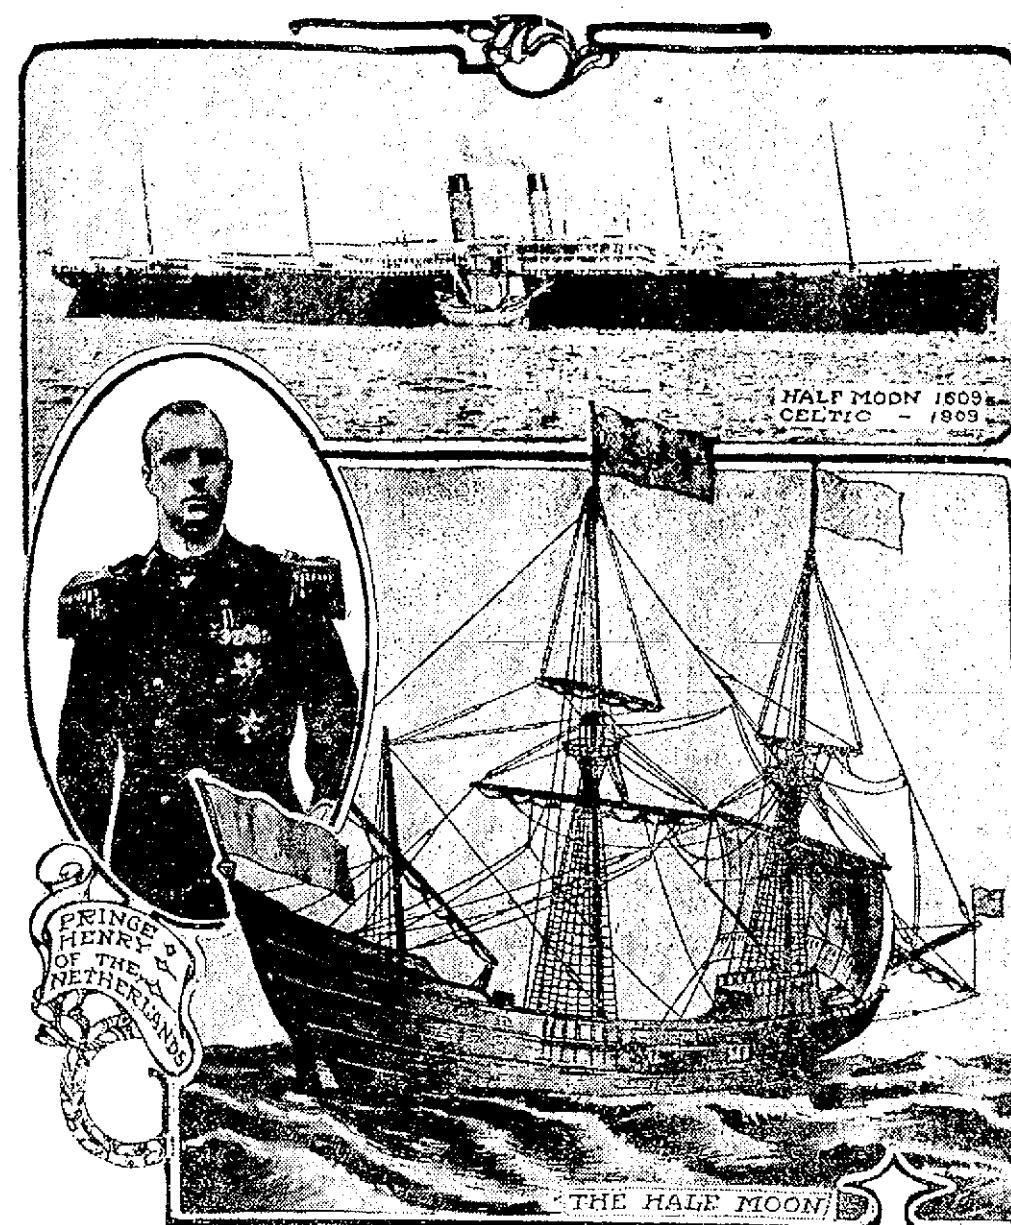

Speaking of the course, Mr. Heinze said that the regular course would not be changed unless it is made absolutely necessary by the number of entries.

He went over the course yesterday with the idea of finding out what the feasible route would be for a 15 mile course, and if it is found necessary to lengthen the course the following route will be taken: From the grandstand to Tyngsboro bridge; up the river until the road strikes the Nashua road; turning down this road to Lakeview; down a side road to Varnum avenue at a point, the other side of Butterfield's bay; down Varnum avenue to Dunbar; and finishing the course at the grandstand.

The bill to be presented to the legislature is very nearly drafted and will be introduced by Senator Hibbard this week. It is similar to last year's bill, but asks for a few more days on which the course may be closed.

It is now estimated, and it is a conservative estimate, that between 15,000 and 20,000 automobiles will park around the course. Some New York parties were in town yesterday, making arrangements in connection with the Hudson-Fulton celebrations on the Hudson river in October. When rigged and fitted out the Half Moon will be an exact

HOLLAND'S PRINCE AND SHIP HE SENDS TO THE HUDSON-FULTON CELEBRATION

AMSTERDAM, Holland, May 4.—Good progress is being made in completing the ship Half Moon, recently launched from the navy yard here. This queer looking craft which the people of the Netherlands are sending as a token of their friendship for America is expected to prove one of the most attractive features of the naval parade to be held in connection with the Hudson-Fulton celebrations on the Hudson river in October. When rigged and fitted out the Half Moon will be an exact reproduction of the vessel sailed by Captain Hudson centuries ago. The ship is built of heavy oak timbers and has the high poop and long nosed prow only to be seen in old prints of ancient Dutch and Spanish galleons. She is of about eighty tons, length sixty-three feet, beam eighteen feet, and she draws seven and a half feet of water. Her crew will number twenty men. The Half Moon is being fitted with three masts and sails of ancient pattern, while her armament will consist of the construction of the Half Moon.

and will be well constructed. At night it will be beautifully illuminated by electricity, and the fireworks on the evening of Labor day will be set off from it.

To construct such a bridge it will be necessary to obtain permission of the war department, and Congressmen Ames will do whatever is in his power to obtain such permission.

While it is too early to pick out the entrants to the race at the present time, it is a foregone conclusion that Lancia, the designer of the famous Lancia car, will be here as will be Hillard, the Boston driver, whose stunts with the Lancia car have won fame for both the driver and the car. Bob Burns and Louis Strang, both of whom appeared in the Labor day race here last year, will be with the Buick outfit, while George Robertson who drove the Isotta in the Lowell race and afterwards won the Vanderbilt cup race in the Locomobile is sure to come here. De Putina, the dare-devil driver of the Fiat, will be an attraction also.

The following from the Worcester Telegram shows the interest that the people in other cities are taking in the proposed race:

The only event in the United States, according to President Coghill, which will in any way outshine the Dead-horse hill climb, will be the Lowell road race, Sept. 6, which will be the National association event this year.

The Vanderbilt cup races are called off for this year," said Coghill, "and that leaves Massachusetts with the two greatest automobile events in the United States if not in the world, for 1909. There will be automobile people from all corners of the country at Lowell, and the Dead-horse hill event will draw the greatest automobile crowd that has ever been in Worcester at one time.

"All the Vanderbilt cup racers are to enter the Lowell contest, a fact that gives promise of more speed and excitement than there was last year. That means a lot, too, for the Lowell race of 1908 was about the fastest thing out, and the most exciting.

"The English, Italian, German and French cars will be there, in fact, I think arrangements for filing their entries have been made. But some of the same cars are to compete in the Worcester events, and others just as speedy that will not enter in the Lowell events.

"Then, with one or two endurance runs possible for this fall, in Worcester, a few events by the Boston motor clubs, and Massachusetts, with particular reference to Worcester and Lowell, will class as the foremost automobile centers in the United States.

"Now of the Ormond beach affairs, or even the Cliffs, reliability contest will show a turner to the Massachusetts events. Everything comes to Massachusetts this year, or I miss my guess. Calling off the Vanderbilt cup races means a whole lot to both Worcester and Lowell.

"Nearly all the centers of automobile racing in Worcester are making plans for a trip to Lowell with parties to take in the big race. At the automobile club, it is estimated that more than 100 Worcester automobiles will go to Lowell, and more than half the machines will be parties of six aside from the racing.

"Most of the machines will be driven to Lowell by ways of Ayer Junction, but some are planning on going through Boston, although it is a longer trip, because of better roads. The ones planning on Boston will leave Worcester about 4 o'clock in the morning, to get good positions at the start.

PAUL BUTLER

FOUR ARRESTS

To be Paid by U. S. Government
Were Made by U. S. Marshal Henkel

A bill was introduced by Senator Crane providing for the relief of Paul Butler of Lowell. The compensation is figured on the basis of eight cents for each article.

SPECIAL MEETING

Chelmsford Voters Discussed School Matters

"What's White going to do with those 50 North Chelmsford pupils?" is the question that the voters were asking after last evening's town meeting, while it was also voted that while Gabriel Andoin is a good talker, he couldn't talk enough to get a schoolhouse.

A special town meeting with a warrant containing 11 articles drew a four-sized representation of voters to the town hall last evening. Town Clerk Robbins called to order and J. Adams Bartlett took his time honored position behind the gavel.

Of the 11 articles only three got by, the others being dismissed. Article 5 called for insurance on the school buildings at the Centre and North Chelmsford and it was voted to appropriate $500 for $25,000 insurance on the schools for three years.

Under article 8 the salary of the tax collector was raised from $500 to $550.

Under article 10, an appropriation of $25 was made for the purchase of a postmark for the flagpole at the Centre.

Article 11—To see if the town will accept a conveyance from Mrs. Oscar N. Kyte and Mrs. Jos. A. Parkhurst, or whether the owners thereof may be of a certain lot of land containing 66,000 square feet known as "The Park" situated in West Chelmsford between High street and Pine street, was accepted.

All the other articles were dismissed, and "Gab" Andoin's article to see if the town will vote to buy one or two lots of land at the North village and build a school house upon one or upon each of them, choose a building committee, and raise appropriate or borrow a sufficient sum of money to pay for the same, or act in relation thereto, went down by a vote of 51 to 0.

Several articles referred to school improvements and all were turned down.

People's Cut
Price

That we often feel that we are too easily satisfied and charge too small a profit. We know "regular price" is a very elastic term and is often used to deceive prospective buyers. But when we use the term, we mean OUR regular price. That is, a fair margin of profit added to the cost of goods—a profit that every furniture dealer MUST have to pay expenses. And he must do a good business at that; turn his stock over frequently; buy right; discount his bills; keep his expenses down—in fact, handle his business in a business way or go to the wall. When others advertise cut from THEIR regular price, we find that their cut price is much higher than OUR regular price, or they are stretching the truth to the breaking point. Don't be deceived by "blueberry." But when you want to buy any Furniture, Carpets or Stoves, go to a place where you know you will be used square and fair, and where the price is always right from Kitchen Chairs to Parlor Suites. And that place is

PEACE CONGRESS POOR BUSINESS

The Work of Women Not to Hold Mr. Greene on Park Board

CHICAGO, May 4.—Discussion of the commercial and industrial aspects of universal and permanent peace was the feature of today's session of the second national peace congress in this city. Special sessions were set apart for consideration of women's work in the interests of peace and for the part which universities and colleges have played in the great problem.

The women's session was held under the auspices of the Chicago Women's Club. Mrs. Ellen Hoptroff of this club presided. Mrs. Lucia Ames Head of Boston spoke on "Five dangerous fallacies." She said in part:

"The world surely will see during this century an international policy, but rival navies and armies are doomed. Those monstrous anachronisms of civilization must be turned into beneficial messengers of commerce."

"Human nature is changing, but whether it changes or not the business of the world will not much longer tolerate two nations making a costly toll of the people's highways and dragging neutral nations into commercial leagues with a few influential countries can and will and international war. It is chiefly a question of statesmanship."

TURKISH CABINET

The Makeup of the New Ministry

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 4.—The new cabinet probably will be organized as follows:

Grand vizier—Hilmi Pasha.

Minister of the interior—Ferid Pasha.

Minister of justice—Kakkı Pasha.

Minister of public instruction—Azmi Bey.

Minister of mines and forests—Aristide Pasha.

The other ministries will be retained by the last incumbents. Both Kakkı Pasha and Azmi Bey are members of the committee of union and progress, and it is expected that this cabinet, thus brought into harmony with the present political situation will have a long lease of power.

At the supper following the reception addresses were made by Japanese Consul General Naigi, Rear Admiral Haga and Swinburne, Gov. Gillett, Gen. John P. Weston, John Plaist, naval officer of the port of San Francisco, and others.

"I regret that my English is so poor," said the Japanese admiral, "that I can not express to you all that I feel in my heart, and for this reason I am instructing all my young men to learn foreign languages in order that under similar circumstances they may be fully able to express their thoughts. At the same time you will understand that I am grateful—even if I cannot say so fully as I would."

Acting minister of foreign affairs Tscharkoff today spoke appreciatively of Mr. Riddle whose thorough knowledge of the Russian language and acquaintance with Russian life and character have made him particularly valuable as an ambassador.

Mr. Riddle, who is retiring to private life, has not yet settled his future plans. He has been approached to accept the chair of international law at a prominent American university and now has this proposal under consideration.

MATRIMONIAL

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Thompson, 154 Parkview avenue, was the scene of a very pretty wedding yesterday afternoon. The contracting parties were their niece, Miss Bertha Arnold Wright, and Mr. Chas. Henry Foster. The ceremony was performed by Rev. B. A. Willmott, pastor of the First Congregational church. The ring bearer was Miss Doris Alexander, a niece of the bride, and the flower girls were the Misses Dorothy Wright and Louise Thompson. The ushers were Misses Margaret and Miriam Thompson, cousins of the bride. At the conclusion of the reception Mr. and Mrs. Foster left on an extended wedding tour, and on their return will live at 41 E street.

BUCKLEY—CROWLEY

The first taxi cab to be used in Lowell sped through the streets yesterday on its errand of joy for it carried a bridal party to St. Patrick's parochial residence, where at noon Mr. Timothy Buckley, a popular employee of the Merrimack Woolen mills, of the Navy Yard, and Miss Mary T. Crowley, a most estimable resident of Riverside street, were united in marriage by Rev. Timothy Callahan. The bride was becomingly attired in white silk and carried bride's roses. She was attended by her niece, Miss Alice Knight, who was charmingly gowned in old rose silk and carried a cluster of lilies of the valley. The bestman was Mr. William L. Crowley, brother of the bride. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride, 455 Riverside street, where a reception was held and a wedding dinner served by the Pace company. The reception was to relatives only and the ushers were Messrs. James, Fred, and Thomas Crowley, brothers of the bride. The happy couple were the recipients of a wealth of beautiful wedding gifts. The bride's gift to the bridegroom was a beautiful diamond ring, while the groom's gift to the best man was a diamond stick pin.

Mr. and Mrs. Buckley left on an afternoon train, the bride wearing a London smoke traveling gown, for their honeymoon, which will be enjoyed in Montreal and Toronto, and while returning they will stop at Boston, N. H., as the guests of brother of the bride. They will be at home at 455 Riverside street, after June 1.

CASES POSTPONED

HARTFORD, May 4.—The criminal trials of Stephen Newell, one of the counsel for the New York New Haven & Hartford R. R., brought down a transcript to the New Haven system of the cases of Edgerton, Mo., and Weston, Texas, the same company's 1907 appeals and the trials of the men who were on trial in New Haven. The transcript of the New Haven cases was not yet ready, but the trials of the Edgerton and Weston cases were brought down to the New Haven system. The New Haven system is the federal government's interest in these cases, and the trial of the Edgerton cases is the only one of the two which has been tried.

HARRY ABBOTT

Noted Sporting Man
Victim of Black Hand

Every Englishman in Lowell will be pained to learn of the death of Harry Abbott of Thornton, R. I., one of America's leading whipper fencers and general English sporting men.

Police Officer "Tem" Whittaker to-day received a telegram announcing his death, for the two were lifelong friends.

Behind the announcement of the death of Mr. Abbott is a tragic story of the so-called "Black Hand," which is giving this country much concern at the present time.

About 18 months ago Mr. Abbott received a letter threatening his life and it also contained the usual representation of the skull and cross bones. Mr. Abbott looked upon the note as a joke and showed it to his friends, making light of it. Two days later, however, while returning from Providence to Thornton, he was set upon in the road and brutally assaulted by a party of unknown men and left by the roadside in an unconscious condition. He was found later by a passerby and was removed by the Rhode Island hospital, where on account of the brutality of his injuries his life was at first despaired of and he was an inmate of the hospital for four months before he could return to his home. He never recovered from the effects of the assault and his death was the ultimate result. No trace was ever found of his assailants.

Mr. Abbott was proprietor of the "George and Dragon" hotel at Thornton and the New King grounds, where monthly he held big whipper handings.

He was the recognized authority of whippers and whipper racing in America, and was the official handliner at all whipper races.

He was a frequent visitor to Lowell and had many friends in this city.

THE CONSTIPATION EVIL

IS RESPONSIBLE FOR MOST CASES OF PILES

Constipation paralyzes the blood vessels of the lower bowel, and often causes piles. Women and all other indoor workers, are the most frequent sufferers. # LOST RIGHT ARM FATALLY BURNED

Man Was Awarded a Verdict of Mrs. Larault Dropped a Lighted Lamp $8500

BOSTON, May 4.—For the loss of his right arm, James E. Bagley, a plumber of East Boston, was given a verdict for $8500 against the Wonderland company and his former employer, the Aldrich & Shee Construction company, by a jury before Judge Fessenden, in the first session of the superior court yesterday.

While working for his employer at Wonderland on June 13, 1906, he was directed to lay some valves on the chutes, and while on a narrow passageway between the tracks he slipped upon some oil which escaped from a leaky cup and his right arm got caught in the cogs of the operating machinery. His arm was crushed and had to be amputated. He sued for $25,000.

Mrs. Fannie T. Gorsell was given a verdict for $1243 against the County Savings bank of Chelsea, by direction of Judge Crosby, in the sixth jury session. She sued for a deposit which stood in the name in her name. It was made up of the proceeds of real estate her husband, Dr. Richard Gorsell, a druggist, lay claim to the deposit, claiming the real estate was his own. But he had been found by the court that the property belonged to her. Before her marriage she had been in the military business.

The Saco Brick company of Saco, Me., recovered a verdict for $2750 against the P. Curtis Manufacturing company of the city, in the seventh jury session before Judge DeCourcey. The suit was for damages for breach of a warranty in the sale of a 55 horse

TWO MEN HANGED At Andover, N. B. for Murder of Jewelry Peddler

One of the Men Confessed to the Crime and Said $2600 was the Booty Taken From the Murdered Man

ANDOVER, N. B., May 4.—As the words "and deliver him from all evil" fell from the priest's lips Antoile Arosha and Leon Seppel dropped through a trap at the Victoria county jail in the early morning light today, and paid the penalty for the crime of murdering a jewelry peddler to secure his money and merchandise. It was the first double execution in the history of the province, but the arrangements were so complete that the entire affair was free from interruption and death in both instances was instantaneous. The condemned men sank into a troubled sleep after a restless night at 3 a.m., only to be aroused two hours later to make preparations for the final event.

After holy communion had been administered Public Executioner Radcliffe announced that the time for the prosecution had arrived. One behind the other, with bands plonked, the two men began the death march. It was hardly a moment when they were upon the scaffold. As they still stood one behind the other on the trap the legs of the men were strapped and the black caps were pulled on, hiding the light of day from their eyes forever. Father Ryan, who had been their spiritual companion, then began the recital of the Lord's prayer with the two men standing like statues awaiting the end. As the words "from all evil" were spoken a sharp click was heard and the two bodies disappeared through the trap. Dr. Ayle of Perth pronounced death instantaneous in both cases.

A company of dozen saw the execution.

Edward Green was murdered last summer on a lonely road near Plaster rock and his pack of jewelry carried off.

Shortly after Arosha and Seppel,

And Was Fatally Burned Before Assistance Arrived -- Distressing Case in Railroad Street Last Evening

The alarm from box 63, Howard and Hale streets, about 7.30 o'clock last night, called the fire department to a tragedy, the victim of which was Mrs. Rose Larault of 105 Railroad street, who was fatally burned by an exploding kerosene lamp.

Mrs. Larault had been sick in bed at some time and her husband, Michael, had left the house only a short time before the fatality occurred.

Neighbors hearing the woman screaming rushed into the house and discovered Mrs. Larault in the kitchen with her clothing all afame. The fire alarm was rung in and the neighbors could tear off her burning clothing. Her body was burned beyond recovery. She was removed to St. John's hospital, where she died at 10.50 o'clock. She was about 50 years of age and besides her husband leaves one son, Michael.

Although nobody saw how the accident happened it would appear that Mrs. Larault left her bed room carrying a lamp and went downstairs to get a drink of water. A glass of water was found on a chair in the kitchen and the broken lamp was on the floor nearby. She probably dropped the lamp, causing the explosion. The flames did not spread to the woodwork.

Witnesses, Charles J. McIntire, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this third day of May, in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

A famous dinner in a capital of birth to the vast steam propelled commerce which has contributed to the greatness of the state and city.

Henry Hudson, Nat Hendrik.

In order that an intelligent comprehension of the undertaking may be had it is well enough to correct a few errors that have existed about the great discoverer. Little is authentically known of his early life. It is supposed that he was born in London or in the immediate vicinity. The exact place and date are not known. It is not known where he died or where he is buried. All pictures of him are imaginary. Those exhibited were made from scant personal descriptions. His name was not Hendrik, but Henry. He was married and the father of children, how many no one knows. But he was a great navigator and made four celebrated voyages.

He was not the first white man to see the river which bears his name. The stream delineated on maps made before Hudson's day. The earliest European visitor to the waters was Verazano. He was here in 1524. He wrote of the river as "una grandissima riviera" - a very beautiful river. In 1525 Gomez came, and he named the river after St. Anthony.

Notwithstanding these indisputable facts it remains that Hudson was first to give to the world an authentic record of careful exploration of the river to the head of navigation and in the true sense of the word to "discover" to mankind the extent and resources of the waters that bear his name. Nations were indebted to him for their knowledge of the stream. By universal consent he is accorded the honor of being the discoverer.

This discovery, which is soon to be commemorated, was the result of his first recorded voyage. It was contemporaneous with two English events affecting American history. The first was the English speaking colony at Jamestown, which has contributed to the greatness of the state and city.

The second was the arrival in New York of the Half Moon, the first vessel to be built in America.

The scope of the dual pageant has been agreed upon. The money has been appropriated - $150,000, by the state with $200,000 more to come, and $300,000 by the city. A replica of the craft of Henry Hudson, the Half Moon, is being constructed in Holland and will be here on time. It will make a voyage up the river, as did the original, but instead of an Indian camp on the bank it will pass before an imposing water front and be saluted by the guns of home and visiting navies.

Down at Staten Island the shipyards are at work on a reproduction of Robert Fulton's Clermont. The steamer will follow in the wake of the Half Moon. The Hudson craft will be presented by Holland to the Hudson-Fulton celebration commission. On its arrival in New York harbor and until the celebration is over the Half Moon will be manned with a crew in the costumes of the period of Henry Hudson.

The reception of Holland's gift and the delegates accompanying it, together with ships and officials of other countries, will mark the international phase of the historical and educational pageant.

The United States government will be represented by federal troops, the navy and distinguished civil officers. At the head of all will be President Taft and his cabinet.

The other representations arranged for by the commissioners are interstate participation by New York and New Jersey, state wide observance for commemorative exercises in all the universities, colleges, schools and learned societies throughout the state and one day celebrations in every county seat from Newburgh northward. The observance will begin in New York and last one week.

The anniversary of steam navigation would have been in 1904. It was postponed in order that the celebration might be coincident with the celebration of the tercentenary of Hudson's voyage.

The two events occurred on the same river, and their coincidence made so close together that separate commemorations upon a large scale were deemed inexpedient.

The commissioners that have arranged the program for the fifteen days events and that will carry out the same consist of 200 members appointed by the governor of the state of New York and the mayor of Greater New York city.

It was incorporated in the laws of New York in 1906. Its membership includes the mayors of all the forty-six cities of the state and presidents of thirty-three incorporated villages as well as the Hudson river.

The commemoration of the two events is of peculiar significance in the history of the metropolis and of the Empire State. Two opened up to the world the great harbor and river which are the natural physical factors of nation, state and city. The other gave trade in the city of New York. This will be composed of floats and moving tableaux representing the principal events in the history of the city and state.

Tuesday night will be devoted to official literary exercises in the great halls and theaters of the city and Brooklyn.

Wednesday will be essentially educational day. All universities, colleges and schools will have exercises. A similar observance will occur in the cities and towns up the state. It is also expected that on the same day there will be a dedication of parks and memorials along the Hudson river. It is promised that several memorials now contemplated will be unveiled and dedicated on Wednesday. Some promised are a monument to William the Silent and Henry Hudson and a tablet to the founders and patriots of New York and a tablet on Fort Tryon. The program also contemplates aquatic sports on the Hudson for friendly competition between the crews of the naval vessels and possibly between motor boats.

There will be a reception to visiting guests at West Point, and in the evening will occur in the city the official banquet to distinguished guests.

Thursday will occur the military parade participated in by the regular army, the navy and the national guard of the state. It is contemplated that not less than 25,000 will be in line. In the evening a reception will be given to the official guests on Governors Island.

Friday will be Hudson river day. It will be devoted to the naval parade. Naval vessels, merchant marine, excursion and pleasure craft will take part. Flotilla parades will be held along the shores between the city and Newburgh, and salutes will be fired from eligible points. Another parade from Albany, similar to the one mentioned, will meet the first at Newburgh, and at that point both parades will meet the Half Moon and Clermont.

Saturday will be carnival day in the city and in all cities up the state. In the evening will occur the culmination of the week's events. Flotilla in the river and public and private buildings will be illuminated. There will be displays of fireworks at various points and from the great bridges. Beginning at the evening, a chain of signal fires from mountain tops in the vicinity and from prominent points will be lighted simultaneously.

Up the Hudson Week.

The second week of the commemoration will open Sunday, Oct. 3. This will be known as "Up the Hudson week."

The program will be a repetition of the events that have occurred in the city.

Sunday will be in the nature of an old fashioned week in the towns and cities, Monday will occur the naval parade at Poughkeepsie. Tuesday the parade will move to Kingston. The erection of a monument to Fulton is contemplated at this point. Wednesday the events will be repeated at Catskill. Thursday the fleet will continue to Hudson. A flotilla of Hudson is proposed as this point. Friday the fleet will advance to the capital of the commonwealth. The closing day will be at Troy. This will be the last feature of the dual commemoration.

One of the memorials to be dedicated during the great carnival will be an ironing arch at Stony Point, the history of which is dear to every American.

CIPRIANO CASTRO.

A Modern Instance of a "Man Without a Country."

At first the inability of former President Castro to secure a landing on this coast was regarded as a very amusing political joke. Then a reaction set in. Although the ex-dictator Castro is only another variant of the most certain products of South America, he has succeeded in making himself a popular hero. It is a thing as carrying the joke too far.

PEACE CONGRESS IN CHICAGO

Second National Conference to Discuss International Arbitration.

PEACE congresses are not as numerous as rumors of war, but they have assembled so frequently since the movement was transferred to Berne, Switzerland, that, while they interest, they do not attract the attention they did some years ago.

The congress which meets in Chicago, May 3, is a national deliberation. If the program is followed the conference will last three days. The president of this peace meeting will be the secretary of war of the United States, Mr. Dickinson. In addition to distinguished representatives from various parts of the United States, diplomats from Germany, China and Japan have agreed. The Chinese government will be the second national peace congress in this country. The conference that met in Boston in 1904 was an international deliberation. The first national conference met in New York City in April, 1903.

At the Chicago peace congress, for international arbitration and neutrality, as well as federal and state, will be discussed that will be presented at the third Hague conference in 1907. The coming congress will be the first held in Chicago, the first having occurred in 1904 in connection with the World's Columbian Exposition. The arbitrations made in that congress were submitted at the Hague conference in 1904. Preliminary meetings have been held of which Andrew Carnegie contributed $10,000.

The important question was the care of prisoners of war.

It will not detract from the importance of the great powers of the world to arbitrate their differences to tell the truth. It is history that the movement leading to the arbitration of the tribunals at The Hague fell short of expectations. Following closely upon its deliberations came the war between the Boers and the English, the international campaign to China, culminating in the battle of Peking, and the war between Russia and Japan.

The war on Japan was waged by the czar, who was the father of the peace movement; at least he is credited by the critics with being the sponsor of the war.

It is related that this country went to war with such, according to some of the critics, that is not true, for Jean de Vaux assembled that year, French, French, Russia, Austria and Prussia.

England made many of the suggestions which had been made by the United States.

STATE WOULD LOSE

Point of Order Sets Back the Tax Bill

BOSTON, May 4.—On a point of order raised by Representative Kemp of Springfield in the lower branch of the state legislature, yesterday afternoon, Speaker Walker referred to the committee on ways and means the pending bill providing that all of the franchise taxes of business corporations shall go to the city or town in which the corporation business is located instead of being divided between that place and the communities where the stockholders reside.

The bill had been opposed by Representatives Bishop of Newton and White of Brookline, and favored by Representative Holt of Methuen, when Representative Mildram of Boston called attention to the fact that under the provisions of the measure, the commonwealth would lose about $500,000 which is now received from stock which is owned without the commonwealth. On this statement Representative Kemp raised the point of order that being a measure which affected the revenue of the commonwealth, the bill should have been passed on by the committee on ways and means. The speaker sustained this point and the opponents of the measure scored thereby.

The bill to place the Chattel Loan company under the supervision of the banking commissioner was passed to be engrossed without debate. The amendment offered by Representative Malley of Boston to the bill last Friday was rejected, the representative himself urging its rejection. He told the house that he had offered the amendment assuming that it came from a member of the banking committee who was absent last Friday on state business. He subsequently learned that it came from an outsider who was interested in the measure. He would therefore vote against it as a protest against this kind of tactics.

Fall River License Board

The advocates of the bill to provide for a separate licensing commission and police commissioners for Fall River apparently had the house in pretty good shape yesterday afternoon. Representatives Brayton of Fall River, Stearns of Cambridge, Denny of Worcester and Bouvier of Fall River opposed the bill. Representative Stearns terming it simply the result of strife between local brewers. It was advocated by Representative Lee Moore, Whipple and Harrington of Fall River and Doyle of New Bedford.

Representative Stearns moved that the bill be referred to the next general court. On rising vote this was defeated, 54 to 87. The bill was then passed to be engrossed, 89 to 45.

Without debate the Boston & Maine pension bill was ordered to engrossment.

After a somewhat protracted discussion the resolve to provide for a constitutional amendment to permit the use of voting machines was passed to be engrossed, 53 to 29.

Without division, the house passed to engrossment the resolve to provide for an investigation by the railroad and transit commissioners as to the desirability of stockholders.

IT MAKES YOU WELL

IT KEEPS YOU WELL

Life is not measured by years, but by health and strength. How many who ought to be in the prime have evidence in looks and feelings of old age. It's not to be so. Strength and health ought to be as perfect as in youth. If it is not so, something is wrong with you. You have weakened yourself in your mode of life or occupation. Are you shut up all day in the office, house, or factory? Do you stuff yourself with food when your body does not have exercise enough to work it off? While not exactly sick, do you feel out of order, feel languid and easily do not eat or sleep well, have headache, indigestion, sour stomach, constipation, biliousness? Are you feeling nervous, out of sorts and without your usual energy and strength? You need Kickapoo Sagwa, the Indian Vegetable Remedy.

The Kickapoo Remedies are for sale at all drug stores. If you wish to test that all this chronic ill health is caused by stomach and liver trouble, we will gladly send you a free trial bottle. The Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Clintonville, Conn.

TAKE A SUNSHINE TABLET FOR THY STOMACH'S SAKE

A Woman in Maine Calls Mi-o-na the Sunshine Prescription.

There never was such a marvelous prescription for stomach distress and indigestion as Mi-o-na.

No doctor ever wrote a better one. It's doubtful if any doctor ever will. It's so good that Carter & Sherrard say money back if it doesn't cure.

A woman in Maine calls Mi-o-na the sunshine prescription because she has seen so many stomach and digestive disorders turned into health by the use of a human tablet in a few days by taking Mi-o-na.

The stomach is responsible for three-fourths of the nervousness and half the misery in the world. A woman can have a first-class stomach and yet be miserable if she has a hysteric who is a nervous dyspeptic.

But why not change pain to pleasure.

Take a Sunshine Tablet for thy stomach's sake.

DIED IN STREET

Jas. E. White Succumbs to Heart Disease

The many friends of James E. White of 198 Shaw street, a retired mill overseer, will be pained to learn of his sudden death which occurred last evening in Westford street as he was returning from a meeting of Mt. Herch Royal Arch chapter, of which he was a member.

Mr. White was walking along the sidewalk when he was seen to fall by Leon Hitchcock of 232 Westford street. The latter with a friend ran to his assistance and picked him up. He had struck his head on the curbstone, sustaining a large cut on the forehead. Dr. Sweetser was called from his home nearby, but upon his arrival the man was dead. At this time an auto passed rapidly down the street and this fact, together with the cut, Mr. White's forehead, gave rise to a widespread but inaccurate rumor that he had been run down and killed by an automobile.

The body was removed to the establishment of J. F. O'Donnell & Sons, where it was identified by means of Masonic emblem in his pockets. His relatives were immediately notified.

He was about 75 years of age, and had been retired for over three years. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Willard E. Symonds, with whom he lived at 148 Shaw street, and two other daughters, Mrs. Annie Perlman of this city and Miss Jessie E. White of Boston, at present connected with the Boston Y. M. C. A. school. He was a Knight Templar, belonging to a commandery in the south.

A LIVELY TILT

Dolliver and Aldrich Clash in the Senate

WASHINGTON, May 4.—A sharp tilt occurred in the senate today between Mr. Dolliver of Iowa and Mr. Aldrich of Rhode Island. The Iowa senator, in a speech on the tariff, was quoting from memory a statement which he said had been made by Mr. Aldrich and corroborated by Mr. Flint of California, that certain schedules of the Dingell bill were not drawn by the finance commission, but by government experts. Mr. Aldrich protested that he was not being quoted correctly and that Mr. Dolliver was making a false statement. When the identical words, ited in his own time."

POLICE HEARING

The Reading of the Records
Continued Today

"Three men ordered sandwiches and beer; four men ordered oysters and whiskey; one man ordered drink and was refused; and so it went today at the mayor's police board hearing. It was the same old two-and-sixpence; the same dry reading of the reports of hotel hearings. It is a bit strange perhaps that "beer reading" is dry reading, but it is just the same, especially after some stink hundred pages of it have been read."

The youngest spectator at the hearing is Little Johnnie Donohoe, whose home is in Moody street, just a few steps from city hall. Johnnie is one

CHOIR DIRECTORS STREET BINDER

To Meet in Boston This Evening

This evening the choir directors and organists of the Catholic churches of this city will go to the Hub to attend the second meeting of the music committee appointed by Archbishop O'Connell, for the purpose of revising the music of the church so as it will agree with the stipulations laid down by the pope in the edict which he issued in the year of 1904. The churches of this city have been complying with the request of the pope as closely as they could.

Upon making known the request of the pope that the music be changed to the old style Gregorian chant, the archbishop appointed the committee which is conducting the meetings in Boston at the present time. The first work of the committee was to publish a list of the masses and hymns which were allowable.

A canonization will be present this evening for the purpose of giving a correct idea of the pronunciation. He will also give a short version as to the origin of the modes which promises to be of much interest in the using of the music. After the lecture a choir of young men and boys of a Boston church will sing a mass and several hymns of the Gregorian and Solomonic editions.

The third and final meeting of the committee will be held on Thursday evening, May 20. The meetings are held especially for the instruction of the organists and directors. Questions are submitted and are answered by the commission.

OUT ON STRIKE

Girls Want Increase in Wages

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 4.—Oscar Hebert, a young shoe worker who failed to present himself at St. George's church yesterday at the time announced for his marriage to Miss Latin Morris, was heard from today in a letter which bears the Boston post mark. He wrote Miss Morris and his mother, both messages being of the same tenor and are to the effect that he had to do it, and asks to be forgiven. The disgruntled Sunday morning and investigators made to do so that he was in the hands of gamblers at Lake Massabesic Saturday night. His relatives and friends believe that he was drugged, and are making every possible effort to get at the bottom of the unusual circumstances.

SIG. G. PICCO

The new opera company, of which much has been written, will open its season in the new Boston Opera House, built especially as its home, on November 8 and 9. Picco will make his debut on November 17th in "Traviata" in the part of "Germont," the leading baritone role.

She attempted to go ahead but the hawsers parted, four of the barges, the "Mosaic," Susquehanna, Wyoming, and Antelope, drifting away. Two of these later sank, the Susquehanna went on the rocks, and the Wyoming was later recovered.

Yesterday morning Supt. McCall of the police department received a letter, written in Greek, from Economidis and he turned it over to Constable Harry Demaras to translate. The letter read as follows:

"Y. 20, 1909.
Dear Superintendent: Please one. Anastasios Pifas remains with me lady. You can find him at 459 Market. I ask to separate. If not separate I will kill him. Brother."

"A. Economidis."

Supt. McCall immediately turned the matter over to Constable Demaras, and as a result Economidis was brought into court. While on the way to the police station it is alleged that Economidis told Demaras that if he were in Greece he would kill him.

During the course of the testimony in court this morning it was brought out that Economidis' sister and her husband live in the same house with Pifas, and Economidis has got an insane idea in his head that the sister should not remain in that house.

When questioned by Judge Hadley, Economidis admitted that he had sent the letter and wanted his sister to leave there.

"Don't you know that your sister is married and that she is living with her husband at this man's house?" asked the court.

"That does not matter," answered Economidis.

"You have no right to interfere so long as the woman's husband is there." If they don't separate, I will kill him," said Economidis.

Judge Hadley asked the young man if he realized the seriousness of the statement he had just uttered, and Economidis said that he did.

By perusing the records it was learned that Economidis has a history that his sister is in trouble. A year or more ago he met his sister who would have grabbed her to death but for the intervention of Pifas. This led to the arrest of Pifas, who was charged with assault and battery on Economidis but when the court learned that Pifas assaulted Economidis in order to protect the life of the latter's sister, Pifas was discharged.

Shortly after that, Economidis was sent to an insane asylum, where he was confined for six or eight months.

Judge Hadley decided to continue the case for final disposition till Thursday morning, and in the meantime Economidis will be examined by alienists.

Six Months for Ganley

JAMES T. Ganley was given a hearing in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of three planes, a chisel, one saw and a screwdriver, the property of Mr. Roy W. Dickey.

Last Wednesday morning Ganley entered the residence of Charles Chagnon at Dewey Grove, but managed to escape from Mr. Chagnon, who interrupted his entrance through a window. Mr. Chagnon traced Ganley into Lawrence and reported the matter to the police of that city and a little later Ganley was arrested by Inspector Keltner while he was attempting to pawn a Stillson wrench.

When arraigned in the local police court Saturday morning Ganley entered a plea of not guilty and the case was continued till this morning at request of the government. Lawyer Edward Tierney appeared for Ganley.

Le Roy W. Dickey, a carpenter residing in Braintree, testified that he has a small carpenter shop adjoining his house and that some time during the past couple of weeks some tools had been taken.

The tools, alleged to have been in the possession of Ganley, were shown to witness and he identified them as his property. He did not know that the tools had been taken until he had been arrested by the police to that effect the other day. He did not know Ganley, having never been able to his knowledge until this morning.

Charles H. Chagnon, whose efforts resulted in the arrest of Ganley, testified that he resides at Dewey Grove, his residence being about three-quarters of a mile from Mr. Dickey's place. Mr. Chagnon during the course of his testimony said:

"Last Wednesday morning about six o'clock my attention was attracted by the sound of some person walking on the porch around my house. I dressed myself I went down stairs and saw that there was a man trying to open one of the windows on the front side of the house. After he had succeeded in opening the window I recognized that man running to Ganley, in the dock. I asked him what he was doing and he said, 'Nothing, I am trying to get out of the rain.' I asked him if the porch was not big enough for him and he answered that he did not know that there was any room for him.

"He was in a pair of overalls and a cap and in answer to my question said that he had been working at the dock. As I had several carpenters working about the dock I thought that he might be one of them and going around to the rear of the house I found that the men had left to go to work. When I got back to the dock I saw the man running down the road. He had a number of tools under his coat.

"When I saw that I was following him I called to him to stop and when he gave no sign he was reached by me and the tools went across the porch. I guess he would be scared to death.

THE AUTO RACES

The Success of the Great Carnival is Assured

In order to make the proposed auto. Boston & Maine tracks, the lower end during the Labor day week one of the ball and the bridge. Thus people most stupendous automobile events in would be brought directly to within the history of this country the Lowell five minutes' walk of the grandstand president, John O. Heinze, is outlining an entire lack of congestion. This plan of an unusual nature in which would be the main entrance to the course, everything conceivable for the course.

The carrying capacity of the Boston & Northern would be increased also for the double tracks would add here. They would run their cars from Merrimack square, past the Middlesex companies for the spectators in the street station, to the main entrance, and then pass down to the city again patrolling of the course and a hundred other details.

The proposed auto. Lowell have been promised an event which will go down in history as the greatest event of the present day, and if the affair does not prove to be the success it is intended to be, it will not be the fault of the members of the local club, for no stone will be left unturned.

Already the newspapers throughout the country are boasting the monster carnival, and if the reports of these newspapers can be taken as criterion, the number of people who will witness the race will be far beyond the conception of the auto club, though the proposed plan for the accommodation of the public are of such an extensive nature that innumerable people can be cared for.

While the present Merrimack Valley course is 10.6 miles, acting on the suggestion of the American Automobile Association, it may be lengthened to 15 miles, but that is a matter which has not as yet been definitely decided. In the event of the course being made longer the additional 4.4 miles of road will be placed in the best of condition in order to insure safety to the daredevil drivers.

The question of entries is of secondary importance for the A. A. A. and A. M. C. M. A. are looking after these details and it is understood that the big difficulty will come in the weeding out of entrants, for up to the present time there have been more entries made than will be allowed on the course. The cream of the drivers will be picked out and the others will be used only in case of the sickness or accident to one of the big drivers.

One of the most important things to be considered is the transportation facilities, but President Heinze believes that he has solved that problem. He feels that the facilities last year were inadequate. In conversation with a representative of The Sun, President Heinze had the following to say:

"It appealed to me that the most advisable plan would be to construct a pontoon bridge across the river, of sufficient strength for safety, from the rear of the grandstand, between the wind mill and the pumping station, to the other side of the river. It would be absolutely up to the Boston & Maine railroad to relieve the congestion at the bridge entrance, by constructing a 300 foot platform, where passengers from their trains would be discharged. A special station would be erected.

A tunnel would be built under the river will be the main entrance to the course and will be well constructed. At night it will be beautifully illuminated by electricity, and the fireworks on the evening of Labor day will be set off from it.

To construct such a bridge it will be necessary to obtain permission of the war department, and Congressman Ames will do whatever is in his power to obtain such permission.

While it is too early to pick out the entrants to the race at the present time it is a foregone conclusion that Lancia, the designer of the famous Lancia car, will be here as will be Hilliard, the Boston driver, whose stunts with the Lancia car have won fame for both the driver and the car. Bob Burman and Louis Strang, both of whom appeared in the Labor day race here last year, will be with the Buick outfit, while George Robertson who drove the Isotta in the Lowell race and afterwards won the Vanderbilt cup race in the Locomobile is sure to come here. Du Faima, the daredevil driver of the Fiat, will be an attraction also.

The following from the Worcester Telegram shows the interest that the people in other cities are taking in the proposed race:

The only event in the United States, according to President Coghlin, which will in any way outshine the Dead-horse Hill climb, will be the Lowell road race, Sept. 6, which will be the National association event this year.

The Vanderbilt cup races are called off for this year," said Coghlin, "and that leaves Massachusetts with the two greatest automobile events in the United States, if not in the world, for 1909. There will be automobile people from all corners of the country at Lowell, and the Dead-horse hill event will draw the greatest automobile crowd that has ever been in Worcester at one time.

All the Vanderbilt cup racers are to enter the Lowell contest, a fact that gives promise of more speed and excitement than there was last year. That means a lot, too, for the Lowell race of 1908 was about the fastest race ever, and the most exciting.

The following from the Worcester Telegram shows the interest that the people in other cities are taking in the proposed race:

The road isn't oily, as one would suppose. There is no grease to throw on the machines, and nothing to pick up in line of stones, sharp pebbles, and other things to give the troubles, said Sec. Herbert M. Sawyer of the Worcester automobile club. "It has the appearance of a dull brown rubber surface, but gives more life to machines than a concrete surface without the element of danger a concrete course would give.

"It has beach sands beaten, too, for they are treacherous, and every little rainfall washes gullies. Some of the most startling automobile accidents of the motor age, have been due directly to little gullies washed in beach sands. It doesn't take much of a gully, you know, to wreck a machine traveling from 60 to 75 miles an hour.

The Worcester men who have driven over it say some parts of the Lowell course are rough, but the boulevard, which comprises the final lap of the race, is smooth enough for the most startling of grandstand finishes.

There will be excursion trains from Boston, Providence, Manchester, N. H., Nashua and from several other cities, and Worcester garages are making preparations for the greatest flock of automobile tourists in the United States.

None of the Ormond beach affairs, or even the Chicago reliability contest will show a mirror to the Massachusetts events. Everything comes to Massachusetts this year, or I miss my guess. Falling off the Vanderbilt cup races means a whole lot to both Worcester and Lowell.

Then, with one or two endurance runs possible for this fall, in Worcester, a few events by the Boston motor clubs, and Massachusetts, with particular reference to Worcester and Lowell, will class as the foremost automobile centers in the United States.

HOLLAND'S PRINCE AND SHIP HE SENDS TO THE HUDSON-FULTON CELEBRATION

AMSTERDAM, Holland, May 4.—Good progress is being made in completing the ship Half Moon, recently launched from the navy yard here. This queer looking craft, which the people only to be seen in old prints of England and America, is a threemaster of the Netherlands are sending as a gift of their friendship for America, is expected to prove one of the most attractive features of the naval parade to be held in connection with the Hudson-Fulton celebrations on the Hudson river in October. When rigged and fitted out the Half Moon will be an exact reproduction of the vessel sailed by Captain Hudson centuries ago. The ship is built of heavy oak timbers and has the high poop and long nosed prow only to be seen in old prints of England and America. Threes for transport across the Atlantic. On Sept. 27 she will make her official entry into Sandy Hook, after which she will be handed over to the American committee in charge of the Hudson-Fulton celebration. Prince Henry of the Netherlands heads the committee in charge of the construction of the Half Moon and will be well constructed. At night it will be beautifully illuminated by electricity, and the fireworks on the evening of Labor day will be set off from it.

To construct such a bridge it will be necessary to obtain permission of the war department, and Congressman Ames will do whatever is in his power to obtain such permission.

While it is too early to pick out the entrants to the race at the present time it is a foregone conclusion that Lancia, the designer of the famous Lancia car, will be here as will be Hilliard, the Boston driver, whose stunts with the Lancia car have won fame for both the driver and the car. Bob Burman and Louis Strang, both of whom appeared in the Labor day race here last year, will be with the Buick outfit, while George Robertson who drove the Isotta in the Lowell race and afterwards won the Vanderbilt cup race in the Locomobile is sure to come here. Du Faima, the daredevil driver of the Fiat, will be an attraction also.

The following from the Worcester Telegram shows the interest that the people in other cities are taking in the proposed race:

The only event in the United States, according to President Coghlin, which will in any way outshine the Dead-horse Hill climb, will be the Lowell road race, Sept. 6, which will be the National association event this year.

The Vanderbilt cup races are called off for this year," said Coghlin, "and that leaves Massachusetts with the two greatest automobile events in the United States, if not in the world, for 1909. There will be automobile people from all corners of the country at Lowell, and the Dead-horse hill event will draw the greatest automobile crowd that has ever been in Worcester at one time.

The pieces at which the manufacturers' materials are imported in 1909 are much below those of 1908. This general decline in the prices of manufacturers' materials indicates that the $8 million dollars worth of manufacturers' materials imported in March, 1909, represents nearly or quite twice as great a quantity of material as the $9 million dollars' worth imported in March, 1908.

NIGHT EDITION FOUND

THE INCOME TAX

Was Discussed in the U. S. Senate Today

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Senator Borah in the senate today contended that the principle of the income tax applies to the inheritance tax which was either a tax on real estate or on the right to take real estate. If one was unconstitutional, the other was equally so.

Mr. Borah contended that the matter of the constitutionality of an income tax could very well be submitted to the supreme court of the United States. This, he said, was because of facts of history revealed in respect to the purposes of the framers of the constitution which were not presented to the court when the income tax case a few years ago was argued and also because of decisions rendered by the court since the income tax case was disposed of.

Mr. Root followed Mr. Borah. He submitted statistics to show the extent to which the wealth of the country is now taxed by states, counties and municipalities.

"It is not a fact," said Mr. Root, "that in this republic property does not bear a very great proportion of the burden of taxation." He gave figures to show that the ad valorem taxes levied on that property at the rate of about three-quarters of one per cent, which he said would be equivalent of an income tax of 15 per cent throughout the country. He said that New York real estate does not yield a net income of more than three and a half to four per cent, so he regarded this tax as very considerable.

"Who at last pays this tax—the real estate owner or the rentor?" asked Mr. Root.

Mr. Root replied that it was imposed on the property and paid it in spite of any analysis that might be made as to where it came from.

"But if the income tax existed," interposed Mr. Borah, "it would catch a part of the tax that is shifted to the estate owner or the rentor?"

Mr. Bailey argued, however, that in addition to the men of wealth the man who exhausts an earning capacity far beyond the necessities of his home ought to be compelled to pay a tax to the government which protects him in the exercise of his talents and in the accumulation of his wealth.

HAINS' MOTHER

Is to Testify in Her Son's Behalf

FLUSHING, N. Y., May 4.—Mrs. Virginia Hains, the aged mother of Captain Peter Hains, Jr., came to Flushing today to be at hand to testify in her son's behalf at Captain Hains' trial before Judge Garretson in the supreme court here, for the killing of William Annis. It was originally the opinion of the defense to summon right the captain replied:

"Annis was here quite a while and kept me awake," the captain continued.

"I would be called today to preface any possibility of her not being able to give her testimony."

"Don't you know that Annis is dead?" I asked the captain. At that the prisoner suddenly jumped from his cot and with his hand raised heard the clerk, Theodore Hurd, put the question

"You lie!" said Dr. Platt.

30,000 ARE DEAD

As Result of Massacres at Adana

ADANA, Asiatic Turkey, Monday, May 4, via Cyprus, May 1.—Adana is still lawless. More people were killed in the city yesterday. There are thirty thousand dead in Adana province as a result of the massacres.

Captain Hains when nine years old was on the "Pharos" with his parents one day and he saw him fall down a hatchway fifteen feet to the deck below and strike on his head. The body was rendered unconscious for a long time by the fall the witness said.

Adana is terrorized by 4000 soldiers who are looting, shooting and burning. No respect is paid to foreign properties. Both the French schools have been destroyed and it is feared that the American school, commercial and missionary interests in Adana are totally ruined.

The new vali has not as yet inspired confidence. There is reason to believe that the authorities still intend to permit the extermination of all Christians. The troops here are making a pretense of throwing "water" on the flocks instead of water they use kerosene and are thus purposely adding to the desolation.

Apprehension is felt here regarding the American missionary workers at Hadjin and Tarsus.

All letters and telegrams sent through Turkish channels are censored.

FOUND GUILTY

Jordan Convicted of Murder in First Degree

CAMBRIDGE, May 4.—Looking straight into the eyes of the jury Chester S. Jordan of Somerville apparently unmoved, heard the fateful words, "Guilty of murder in the first degree," as the twelve men, shortly after noon today announced the result of their nineteen hours' deliberation over the murder of Jordan's wife, Herrera, in Somerville on September first last. By his side sat his venerable father, nearby were his sisters and several other relatives, all of whom were scarcely able to keep back their tears, while strangely enough a score of women spectators cried and sobbed as if the young man who stood like a white marble statue was their own brother.

Jordan's lawyers immediately announced their determination to carry the case to the highest court in the land.

For fourteen days the jury heard the evidence, much of it of a gruesome nature, of the discovery of Mrs. Jordan's dismembered body in a trunk, with Jordan sitting by its side after an ineffectual attempt to ship it by steamer to New York. They heard the government's theory of the murder in which it was claimed that Jordan had struck his wife with a baton, strangled her and then cut her throat, followed by the cutting up of the body.

The defense tried hard to show that Jordan was insane and the court ruled that the government must show that Jordan was sane at the time of the murder.

With a great mass of exhibits, including photographs of parts of the body, the jury retired at 5:30 last night and spent the greater portion of the night in debate. When they went to breakfast today three of the number seemed to be the targets of the other nine. It was apparent that these three gave in during the forenoon, for at 12 o'clock word was sent to the court that a decision had been reached.

The lawyers were summoned, the family assembled, the courtroom filled rapidly with spectators, many of them women, and Jordan was brought over from the nearby jail. He scanned the faces of the twelve men as they filed into the room and took their places in the jury box. Then he stood up also and with his hand raised heard the clerk, Theodore Hurd, put the question

"It is murder?"

"In what degree?"

"In the first degree."

PAUL BUTLER

FOUR ARRESTS

To be Paid by U. S. Were Made by U. S. Marshal Henkel

A bill was introduced by Senator Crane providing for the relief of Paul Butler of Lowell. The measure proposes to pay Mr. Butler $3936.72 as compensation for the use by the government between 1874 and 1889 of a firearms improvement invented by him. The compensation is figured on the basis of eight cents for each article.

HAS BOUGHT PATENTS.

BERLIN, May 4.—The German Motor Airship Co. today confirmed the report that it has purchased the patents of the Wright aeroplane for Germany, but says that the sum of $150,000 mentioned in the despatches from Paris is excessive.

AERIAL NAVY LEAGUE.

STUTTGART, May 4.—At a meeting held here today of the Wurttemberg Aerial navy league, a representative of Count Zeppelin declared that the company formed in connection with the Zeppelin Airship Construction Co. had undertaken to establish a regular line of airships from Lucerne or Friedrichshafen to North Germany via Frankfort-on-the-Main. The actual route to be adopted will depend on the offers made by cities on the line of landing places. It is hoped to open the line for traffic next year.

Miss Mae McCauley, of Jamaica Plain, who has been the guest of Miss Marguerite Lang of Salem street, has returned to her home. While here Miss McCauley was a guest at the High school party.

SPECIAL MEETING

Chelmsford Voters Discussed School Matters

What's White going to do with those 50 North Chelmsford pupils? Is the question that the voters were asking after last evening's town meeting, while it was also voted that while Gabriel Audino is a good talker he couldn't talk enough to get a schoolhouse.

A special town meeting with a warrant containing 11 articles drew a fair sized representation of voters to the town hall, last evening. Town Clerk Robbins called to order and J. Adams Bartlett took his time honored position behind the gavel.

Of the 11 articles only three got by, the others being dismissed. Article 5 called for insurance on the school buildings at the Centre and North Chelmsford and it was voted to appropriate $500 for $25,000 insurance on the schools for three years.

Under article 8 the salary of the tax collector was raised from $500 to $550.

Under article 10, an appropriation of $25 was made for the purchase of a mast for the flagpole at the Centre.

Article 11—To see if the town will accept a conveyance from Mrs. Oscar N. Kyle and Mrs. Jos. A. Parkhurst, or whoever the owners thereof may be, of a certain lot of land containing 68,000 square feet known as "The Park," situated in West Chelmsford between High street and Pine street, was accepted.

Several articles referred to school improvements and all were turned down.

Our Regular Price

Price

That we often feel that we are too easily satisfied and charge too small a profit. We know "regular price" is a very elastic term and is often used to deceive prospective buyers. But when we use the term, we mean OUR regular price. That is a fair margin of profit added to the cost of goods—a profit that every furniture dealer MUST have to pay expenses. And he must do a good business at that; turn his stock over frequently; buy right; discount his bills; keep his expenses down—in fact, handle his business in a business way or go to the wall. When others advertise cut from THEIR regular price, we find that their cut price is much higher than OUR regular price, or they are stretching the truth to the breaking point. Don't be deceived by "bumeonie." But when you want to buy any Furniture, Carpets or Stoves, go to a place where you know you will be used square and fair, and where the price is always right from Kitchen Chairs to Parlor Suites. And that place is

PEACE CONGRESS POOR BUSINESS

The Work of Women Not to Hold Mr. Greene on Park Board

CHICAGO, May 4.—Discussion of the commercial and industrial aspects of universal and permanent peace was the feature of today's session of the second national peace congress in this city. Special sessions were set apart for consideration of women's work in the interests of peace and for the part which universities and colleges have played in the great problem.

The women's session was held under the auspices of the Chicago Women's club. Mrs. Ellen Heppner of this city presided. Mrs. Lucia Amos Meek of Boston spoke on "Five dangerous fallacies." She said in part:

"The world surely will see during this century an international police; but rival navies and armies are doomed. Those monstrous anachronisms of civilization must be turned into beneficial messengers of commerce."

"Human nature is changing, but whether it changes or not the business of the world will not much longer tolerate two nations making a cockpit of the people's highways and dragging neutral nations into commercial loss. A comparatively few influential persons in a few influential countries can and will end international war. It is clearly a question of statesmanship."

TURKISH CABINET

The Makeup of the New Ministry

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 4.—The new cabinet probably will be organized as follows:

Grand vizier—Hilmi Pasha.

Minister of the interior—Ferid Pasha.

Minister of justice—Kakki Pasha.

Minister of public instruction—Azmi Bey.

Minister of mines and forests—Aristide Pasha.

The other ministers will be retained by the last incumbents. Both Kakki Pasha and Azmi Bey are members of the committee of union and progress, and it is expected that this cabinet being thus brought into harmony with the present political situation will have a long lease of power.

GRAND SCENE

AT RECEPTION TO OFFICERS OF JAPANESE CRUISERS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—The scene at the Fairmont hotel last evening during the reception of the officers of the Japanese cruisers was a bewildering array of color, the black of the Japanese serving as an excellent background for the vari-colored gowns of women and the blue and gold lace of American and Japanese officers.

At the supper following the reception addresses were made by Japanese Consul General Nagai, Rear Admirals Ito and Suzuki, Gov. Gillett, Gen. John P. Weston, John Finch, naval officer of the port of San Francisco, and others.

"I regret that my English is so poor," said the Japanese admiral, "that I can not express to you all that I feel in my heart, and for this reason I am instructing all my young men to learn foreign languages in order that under similar circumstances they may be fully able to express their thoughts. At the same time you will understand that I am grateful even if I cannot say so as fully as I would."

W. W. ROCKHILL

TO BE AMBASSADOR TO RUSSIA

ST. PETERSBURG, May 4.—The appointment of W. W. Rockhill at present the American minister to China to succeed John Riddle as ambassador to Russia is thoroughly satisfactory to the foreign office which is pleased that the United States is determined to entrust the St. Petersburg post to one of the most experienced diplomats in the service.

The Russian government was soundly several days ago through Baron Rosen, the ambassador at Washington, regarding the acceptability of Mr. Rockhill and it lost no time in responding that he was persona grata.

Acting minister of foreign affairs Tscharkoff today spoke appreciatively of Mr. Riddle whose thorough knowledge of the Russian language and acquaintance with Russian life and character have made him particularly valuable as an ambassador.

Mr. Riddle, who is retiring to private life, has not yet settled his future plans. He has been approached to accept the chair of international law at a prominent American university and now has this proposal under consideration.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERS

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The spring meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers convened here today and will continue in session until Friday. When Jesse M. Smith of New York formally opened the convention nearly 400 leaders in the profession were present. Various engineering problems are to be dealt with in exhaustive addresses.

Many plans for the entertainment of the visiting engineers have been made. President Tarr will receive them at the White House before adjournment and under a special arrangement with the war department an exhibition of field troops at Fort Myer will be witnessed by the members of the society. Expositions are favorable and an assemblage of a dirigible balloon will be made at the tent.

FULL AND HARTFORD

That the mayor did not re-appoint Harry B. Greene to the park commission does not meet with public favor. The public, so far as we have been able to test the sentiment, believes that Mr. Greene should be allowed to continue on the board.

If it were necessary to make a change the mayor probably could not make a more popular appointment than that of Mr. Henry A. Smith whom he has appointed, but the sentiment in favor of retaining Mr. Greene is very strong.

It is very generally conceded that Mr. Greene is the right man in the right place as park commissioner and it would be very difficult to replace him. The very nature of his business, it is argued, makes him a most valuable man on the board and he has shown the greatest interest in the work of the commission.

The mayor's appointment of Henry A. Smith to succeed Mr. Greene goes to the heart of aldermen tonight and it looks as if the aldermen would refuse confirmation. Aldermen with whom a reporter for The Sun talked this forenoon spoke in the highest terms of Mr. Smith, but they expressed themselves as in favor of retaining Mr. Greene because of the splendid service he has rendered.

THEY HAD FITS

TWO WOMEN TAKEN OFF IN THE AMBULANCE

Maria Stirk, residing in a Fletcher street block, was seized with a fit while standing over a stove this morning and falling on the stove burned her face badly.

The ambulance was summoned and she was removed to St. John's hospital. Nellie Scanlon, an operator at the Hamilton Mfg. Co., was seized with a fit this morning and removed in the ambulance to the Lowell hospital.

WOMAN MAY DIE

Stabbed While Defending Her Husband

BOSTON, May 4.—An amazing display of vitality in their patient buoyed the hopes of physicians at the Relief hospital in their effort to save the life of Mrs. Antonia Dematto, 30, of 151 Franklin street, who was slashed in the abdomen yesterday while defending her husband from the attack of an enraged fellow countryman.

Mrs. Dematto is the mother of four small children, the youngest being a baby in arms, all of whom are now being cared for by neighbors.

Mrs. Dematto was stabbed by a stiletto with which Genaro Del Gazzo was attacking her husband, the police say.

The men had previously quarreled over money matters and had come to blows before 73 North Margin street.

Del Gazzo was unarmed, fled from the attack of Del Gazzo, shouting for help. Del Gazzo followed close upon his heels.

According to witnesses of the affair, Mrs. Dematto rushed into the street, having in her hand a long clothes stick. Throwing herself between the enraged Del Gazzo and her husband, she struck at the knife in Del Gazzo's hand as it was descending. The dagger glanced and pierced her abdomen.

Patrolman Jacobson gave chase to Del Gazzo and captured him.

He was taken to headquarters charged with assault with intent to kill.

It was said at the Relief station last evening that Mrs. Dematto will probably live.

LOWELL VS. BOSTON.

The Boston boomers are to exploit Boston as the city of all New England. That does not agree with Humphrey O'Sullivan's idea that Lowell is ahead of Boston in many important respects. Lowell agrees with Mr. O'Sullivan on this proposition.

JAIL THE SUGAR MAGNATES.

The sugar trust detected in defrauding the government out of something like $9,000,000, tries to discharge its responsibility by paying back two millions. Why not the sugar trust proceed against same as a man detected in snatching jewelry or any other durable article? The sugar magnates should be jailed the same as any other offender found trying to defraud the government.

JAIL SENTENCES EFFECTIVE.

The best treatment for the reckless chauffeurs is a jail sentence. Where a few such sentences have been handed out the reform has been rapid. Nothing else will restrain the very ambitious young men who are nowadays placed in charge of automobiles. The offenders against the speed law are not residents of Lowell, but parties who pass through on a journey, it may be between Boston and points north, as far as Montreal and the White Mountains. In other cases the owners of machines set out on day tours, starting in the morning and returning at night. They, too, go at a rapid rate and generally show a desire for fast driving while passing through cities or towns.

AN UNWISE APPOINTMENT.

With all due respect to Mayor Brown, we believe he made a grave mistake when he named Henry A. Smith for the park board to succeed Harvey B. Greene. In saying this we do not reflect upon the ability of Mr. Smith but we assert that a man so eminently qualified and who has given such devoted and valuable service as has Mr. Greene should not be removed for any whim. The park board will be injured by the substitution of Mr. Smith for Mr. Greene.

What is the reason for refusing to reappoint Mr. Greene? The board of aldermen should not sanction the change because it will injure the cordial and harmonious working of the board. Mr. Smith has a splendid field for the exercise of his efforts as president of the board of trade in which he is doing excellent work.

THE BOSTON HERALD'S CHANGE.

The Boston Herald's decision to drop the afternoon field is probably a choice of evils. The old saying "between two stools we come to the ground" may have impressed itself very forcibly upon the Herald management. There is no doubt whatever that better results are obtained by newspapers devoting themselves solely to one field, whether it be the morning or the afternoon field. Both are so separate and distinct that each should receive the attention of a separate and distinct staff. It is difficult to convince anybody that the afternoon edition of a morning paper is much more than a belated morning paper. Had the Herald given less attention to editorial discussion and put the same amount of brains into the work of the afternoon editions, it might have been able to compete successfully with the Boston Globe. The Globe's policy of non-committal on all the burning issues of the day, does not seem to affect its sales or its value as an advertising medium, although it saves the expense of a very able corps of editorial writers. The time may soon come, however, when the Globe will imitate the Herald in the abandonment of the afternoon field.

TAXING THE BRITISH ARISTOCRACY.

The chancellor of the British Exchequer has submitted his budget for the current year. As was expected, it calls for an increased amount of taxes. Indeed the amount is unprecedented but the increase is not to come out of the plain people but out of hundred aristocracy and upper middle classes which in the past have escaped the burden of taxation. The principle of the income tax is extended so as to fall far more heavily than formerly on the classes mentioned. This tax has repeatedly been condemned as unfair to the heads of families, and to meet that objection the sum of $50 is allowed for each child in the family. This scheme will be regarded as aimed at the aristocracy of England, and it will bring to a crisis the movement against the house of lords as at present constituted. Should the lords reject the bill the situation will become quite strained. The British public is solidly set against the house of lords, against the hundred aristocracy and will not much longer brook their domination.

The amount to be raised is $1,300,000,000, an enormous sum for a government that represents only about 42,000,000 people. It would almost stagger the average American who stands against when congress disposes of much over a fourth of the amount. This is a distinctly new tendency in taxation in England. Formerly the burdens have been heaped upon the poorer classes, but now they shift to the aristocracy and upper middle class that has a very considerable income from various sources. The Pitt's Budget has a lesson that might well be taken to heart by our American legislators. Through the effect of the tariff the bulk of the taxes is extorted from the poorer classes while vast incomes are allowed to pile up and to menace the government and set the people at defiance. England has no tariff and hence she must draw a large portion of her revenues from a direct taxation.

The lesson to be learned in this country to compel the rapid accumulation of wealth in the hands of the few and to force the owners of wealth to contribute their proportion of that wealth to the support of the government. The English experiment projected by the Asquith ministry will be watched with interest. It introduces a new remedy for the effete aristocracy which for generations has been existing in idleness on the earnings of the poorer classes without themselves producing anything useful.

SEEN AND HEARD

SELF HELP

Methodists God must be oft dismayed Hearing how much our lives have prayed, Singing the little that we do To make the prayers we pray come true,

And so I have resolved no more To ask for blessings from His store Until my energetic self, Has searched life's every nook and shelf,

And after I have done my best And make an uneventful quest, And hunted high, and hunted low, Then unto God my prayers shall go.

I would not for one moment ask A mortal friend to do my task Then why on my Creator shirk, My rightful portion of the work?

An idle mendicant—no more, Is he who begs at heaven's door Catt with body, soul and mind He seeks, himself, life's gifts to find. Ella Wheeler Wilcox in March Nautilus.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Ex-President Castro is receiving much attention at the hands of the Paris press in the form of anecdotes, all of which aim to make him ridiculous. Many of the stories are palpably imaginary. Among those published in Paris the following, under the head "Ex-Liberis Castro," has been widely circulated: "The Venezuelan wanted a library for his villa and bought one. To house it he had a great room on the ground floor fitted with shelves and gave orders that the big books be placed in rows on the lower shelves, the medium sized books over these and the small ones high up. The cabinet work was finished and the books were unpacked. Then it was discovered that the big books were too tall for the shelves. Did Castro call in his carpenters to rearrange the woodwork? No—not he. He simply cut the books off to fit, and there they are."

Professor of archaeology and director of the Schleswig-Holstein Museum of Antiquities at Kiel is the full title of Johanna Mestorf, who celebrated her eightieth birthday on April 17. In referring to the anniversary, in which literary and scientific circles of Germany were interested, a biographer says: "Frau Mestorf was born at Brandenburg, Holstein, and never married. Mythology and archaeology were her favorite studies from early youth, and her first great work was the translation of the Swedish archaeological literature into German. In 1891 she succeeded Professor Dankenfeld in the place which she now occupies."

Professor Trevor Kincaid of Boston is now on his way to Russia to collect parasites for the gypsy and brown tail moths. Speaking of his plans after visiting the infested sections near Boston, he said: "In the past the shipments of parasites which have come here from Russia have been in poor condition, having been delayed on the trip owing to the red tape of the government. One of the purposes of my trip to Russia will be to see if we cannot have put into operation the same system of shipments as are now used in sending parasites from Japan. We know there are three principal parasites in Russia that we want, and a great many more that we can find useful in our work here. I expect to remain in Russia until the middle of July, and then to go to Japan for further work there for a time."

Even Miss Schumann-Heink, the tireless, has succumbed to the labor and excitement of six months of appearances in opera and concert in Europe. She has, it seems, abruptly cancelled the engagements that remained to her in France and Belgium, and departed for America here to rest until autumn.

Dr. William Osler, regius professor of medicine at Oxford university and formerly professor of medicine at John Hopkins university, has returned to America. Professor Osler, who has been established at Oxford for three years, endeavors to return to the country as often as possible, as he is very fond of his old associations. While here he will visit Johns Hopkins at Baltimore, and friends in Philadelphia, New York and Boston.

The various churches in Wales are reporting a notable reaction from the revival of three years ago. English Baptists in Wales have a normal annual increase in membership of about eight thousand. In 1905, the year of the revival, their gain was nearly 31,000. In 1907 the net loss was 4,504, and last year it was 5,569.

The selectmen of the town of Dracut have given Michael Dilney leave to withdraw on his petition for a pool and billiard license in Dracut. Mr. Dilney applied for a license in the Navy Yard district and inasmuch as there was considerable remonstrance to the granting expressed, a hearing was held Friday night before the selectmen, the result being that the board of selectmen decided that the granting of such a license would not be for the best interests of the town and gave Mr. Dilney leave to withdraw.

A special town meeting will be held a week from Thursday night to consider the order of the county commissioners for the proposed improvement and extension of the county highway in Bridge street. The commissioners recommended this extension and improvement in the early part of the year and the town was asked to raise $7,000 for the work. When the matter was brought to the attention of the voters at the annual town meeting the appropriation was voted down. The commissioners have now taken the initiative and have estimated that the work will cost about $10,000 and the voters at this special town meeting, scheduled for one week from Thursday, will be asked to vote that an amount of money be voted out for the extension as ordered.

The following articles are also included in the warrant:

Article 2—Resolved that the selectmen be authorized to make contracts under the supervision of an county commissioner for the extension of Bridge street.

Article 3—That the town will vote to rescind the vote of the annual town meeting whereby it was voted to expand Main street by rebuilding the old Market house.

This article is upon petition of Mrs. D. C. Linn and others who live in the vicinity of the bridge and who propose that the road leading to the bridge be straightened and widened and the location of the bridge changed to meet the situation.

Article 4—To see if the town will vote to authorize and instruct the selectmen to pay for the bonds of the town treasurer and tax collector.

The town town meeting exacted from each inhabitant the furnishing of bonds of $100 each.

LOST RIGHT ARM FATALLY BURNED

Man Was Awarded a Verdict of $8500

BOSTON, May 4.—For the loss of his right arm, James E. Bagley, a plumber of East Boston, was given a verdict for $8500 against the Wonderland company and his former employer, the Aldrich & Shea Construction company, by a jury before Judge Fessenden, in the first session of the superior court yesterday.

While working for his employer at Wonderland on June 13, 1906, he was directed to fix some valves on the chutes, and while on a narrow passageway between the tracks he slipped upon some oil which escaped from a leaky cup and his right arm got caught in the cog of the operating machinery. His arm was crushed and had to be amputated. He sued for $25,000.

Mrs. Fannie T. Gorrell was given a verdict for $1343 against the County Savings bank of Chelsea, by direction of Judge Crosby, in the sixth jury session. She sued for a deposit which stood in the bank in her name. It was made up of the proceeds of real estate. Her husband, Dr. Richard Gorrell, a druggist, lay claim to the deposit, claiming the real estate was his own. But it had been found by the court that the property belonged to her before her marriage she had been in the military business.

The Saco Brick company of Saco, Me., recovered a verdict for $2500 against the J. P. East Manufacturing company of Saco in the seventh jury session before Judge DeCourcey. The suit was for damages for breach of warranty in the sale of a 55 horse to file briefs.

TWO MEN HANGED

At Andover, N. B. for Murder of Jewelry Peddler

One of the Men Confessed to the Crime and Said $2600 was the Booty Taken From the Murdered Man

ANDOVER, N. B., May 4.—As the words "and deliver us from all evil" fell from the priest's lips Antiole Arosha and Leon Seppenil dropped through a trap at the Victoria county jail in the early morning light today, and paid the penalty for the crime of murdering a jewelry peddler to secure his money and merchandise. It was the first double execution in the history of the province, but the arrangements were so complete that the entire affair was free from interruption and death in both instances was instantaneous. The condemned men sank into a troubled sleep after a restless night at 3 a.m., only to be aroused two hours later to make preparations for the final event.

After holy communion had been administered Public Executioner Radcliffe announced that the time for the prosecution had arrived. One behind the other, with hands pinched, the two men began the death march. It was hardly a moment when they were upon the scaffold. As they still stood one behind the other on the trap the legs of the men were strapped and the black caps were pulled on, hiding the light of day from their eyes forever. Father Ryan, who had been their spiritual companion, then began the recital of the Lord's prayer with the two men standing like statues awaiting the end. As the words "from all evil" were spoken a sharp click was heard and the two bodies disappeared through the trap. Dr. Arie—of Perth pronounced death instantaneous in both cases.

A company of a dozen saw the execution. Edward Green was murdered last summer on a lonely road near Plaster Rock and his pack of jewelry carried off.

Shortly after Arosha and Seppenil,

MRS. ROSE LARALUT
Fatally Burned by Exploding Lamp

And Was Fatally Burned Before Assistance Arrived—Distressing Case in Railroad Street Last Evening

The alarm from box 53, Howard and Hale streets, about 7:30 o'clock last night, called the fire department to a tragedy, the victim of which was Mrs. Rose Larault of 105 Railroad street, who was fatally burned by an exploding kerosene lamp.

Mrs. Larault had been sick in bed for some time and her husband, Michael, had left the house only shortly before the fatality occurred.

Neighbors hearing the woman screaming rushed into the house and discovered Mrs. Larault in the kitchen with her clothing all astir. The fire alarm was rung in and the ambulance summoned. Before the neighbors could tear off her burning clothing her body was burned beyond recovery. She was removed to St. John's hospital, where she died at 10:30 o'clock. She was about 50 years of age and besides her husband leaves one son, Michael.

Although nobody saw how the accident happened it would appear that Mrs. Larault left her bed room carrying a lamp and went downstairs to get a drink of water. A glass of water was found on a chair in the kitchen and the broken lamp was on the floor nearby. She probably dropped the lamp, causing the explosion. The flames did not spread to the woodwork.

Castro is undoubtedly a villain, according to foreign notions, but his position is technically perfect, and the excuses for interfering with his travels are all of the poor kind that cannot be openly avowed. He has a real grievance, and he seems likely in time to win general sympathy as a persecuted man.

Politics is the sport of Latin America. It takes the place of football as an exercise of brawn and cunning. The South Americans do not play other games, except very primitive ones. Politics they are brought up on, live in and sometimes die of.

There used to be a joke on the vaudeville stage that seldom failed to bring a laugh. Two men are making a bet. "Who'll hold the money?" asks one. "Let the orchestra leader hold it." "Yes, but who will hold him?"

That's the way it is with the South American republics. It is confessed, even by those who hate dictatorship, that the authority must rest in the hands of a strong man. The question is, "Who will hold this strong man?"

Venezuela needed a man who could whip the insurgent spirits into obedience and crush armed rebellion. The man was found in Cipriano Castro. Castro, the mountaineer, with only his steel nerve and self confidence and a handful of men who adored him, created a dictatorship out of chaos. Alas, there was nobody to hold Castro!

So whether Castro spends his last days riding in the Bolívar de Boulogne and sitting in a box at the Corinque or whether he rounds out a good full term as master of Venezuela's fate it's all the same to the republic he has ruled so forcibly. If it isn't Castro it's some one else, or if it isn't some one else it's nobody, which is worse.

And has Castro made money out of the presidency? "Come no?" the Venezuelans would say, with a shrug of the shoulders. Why not? Does anybody think he was in politics for benevolent purposes?

If the harrying of Castro continues long enough, if the countries that have possessions around the Caribbean sea persist in barring him from their ports or driving him away as soon as he lands, the situation will cease to be amusing and become a cause of mildly indignant wonder. Moreover, in time some people may reach the point of asking if it is not rather small business for the United States to lead in the hunting down of one man, and a sick man at that, particularly as the obvious fears of what he may do if he enters his own country or even gets near it are not only distinctly ludicrous in themselves, but they can fairly easily be interpreted as providing a conclusive argument for letting Castro go where he pleases and do what he can.

Venezuela either has or has not at the present time a government able to administer its own affairs and to protect its own dignity. In the one case there would seem to be no reason why it needs help against a single enemy. In the other the help is not deserved. The fact is, or at least so it begins to look, that Gomez, whom Castro left in charge of his own country, is even more of a tyrant than Castro himself.

Saturday will be carnival day in the city and in all cities up the state. In the evening will occur the culmination of the week's events. Fleets in the river and public and private buildings will be illuminated. There will be displays of fireworks at various points and from the great bridges. Beginning at 9 in the evening a chain of signal fires from mountain tops in the vicinity and from prominent points will be lighted simultaneously.

Up the Hudson Week.

The second week of the commemoration will open Sunday, Oct. 3. This will be known as "up the Hudson week." The program will be a repetition of the events that have occurred in the city.

Sunday will be in the nature of an old home week in the towns and cities Monday will occur the naval parade at Poughkeepsie. Tuesday the parade will move to Kingston. The erection of a monument to Fulton is contemplated at this point. Wednesday the events will be repeated at Catskill. Thursday the fleet will continue to Hudson. A statue of Hudson is proposed at this point. Friday the fleet will advance to the capital of the commonwealth. The closing day will be at Troy. This will be the last feature of the dual commemoration.

One of the memorials to be dedicated during the great carnival will be an iron arch at Stony Point, the history of which is dear to every American.

PHILIP DARWIN.

CIPRIANO CASTRO.

A Modern Instance of a "Man Without a Country."

At first the inability of former President Cipriano Castro to secure a landing on this continent was regarded as a very important factor. It looks as if congresses for international arbitration will be held in the construction of Dreadnoughts of Venezuela had deserved richly to drop dead and destruction from him was told that there was probably such himself unpopularity all over the world as carrying the joke too far.

PEACE CONGRESS IN CHICAGO

Second National Conference to Discuss International Arbitration.

PEACE congresses are not as steps to entertain the delegates and numerous as rumors of war. Visitors who will attend the alternate at the sessions of the New York conference were 40,000, and Chicago expects fully that number will attend the second congress.

Peace congresses had been held up to 1867, but the tribunal at The Hague in 1899 was the most important, not so much for what it did as for setting the pace for a general movement for the peaceful solution of international differences.

The first peace conference represented by the commissioners are from various parts of the United States, and the English, the international campaign to China, culminating in the taking of Peking, and the war between Russia and Japan.

The war on Japan was waged by the czar, who was the father of the peace movement; at least he is the sponsor of the tribunal, although, according to some data, that is not true, for Jean de Verona assembled that year, England, France, Russia, Austria and Prussia made many of the suggestions for international arbitration that were adopted by the czar. # STATE WOULD LOSE

Point of Order Sets Back the Tax Bill

BOSTON, May 4.—On a point of order raised by Representative Keen of Springfield in the lower branch of the state legislature, yesterday afternoon, Speaker Walker referred to the committee on ways and means the pending bill providing that all of the franchise taxes of business corporations shall go to the city or town in which the corporation business is located instead of being divided between that place and the communities where the stockholders reside.

The bill had been opposed by Representatives Bishop of Newton and White of Brookline and favored by Representative Holt of Methuen, when Representative Mifflin of Boston called attention to the fact that under the provisions of the measure the commonwealth would lose about $200,000 which it now receives from stock which is owned without the commonwealth. On this statement, Representative Keen raised the point of order that, being a measure which affected the revenue of the commonwealth, the bill should have been passed on by the committee on ways and means. The speaker sustained this point and the opponents of the measure scored thereby.

The bill to place the Chattel Loan company under the supervision of the banking commissioner was passed to be engrossed, without debate. The amendment offered by Representative Mifflin of Boston to the bill last Friday was rejected, the representative himself urging its rejection. He told the house that he had offered the amendment assuming that it came from a member of the banking committee who was absent last Friday on state business. He subsequently learned that it came from an outsider who was interested in the measure. He would therefore vote against it as a protest against this kind of tactics.

Fall River License Board

The advocates of the bill to provide for a separate licensing commission and police commissioner for Fall River apparently had the house in pretty good shape yesterday afternoon. Representatives Brayton of Fall River, Stearns of Cambridge, Denny of Worcester and Bouvier of Fall River opposed the bill, Representative Stearns terming it simply the result of strife between local brewers. It was advocated by Representative Moore, Willets and Harrington of Fall River and Doyle of New Bedford.

Representative Stearns moved that the bill be referred to the next general court. On rising vote, this was defeated, 54 to 47. The bill was then passed to be engrossed, 59 to 48.

Without debate the Boston & Maine pension bill was ordered to engrossment.

After a somewhat protracted discussion the resolve to provide for a constitutional amendment to permit the use of voting machines was passed to be engrossed, 152 to 29.

Without division the house passed to engrossment the resolve to provide for an investigation by the railroad and transit commissioners as to the destination of New Bedford.

IT MAKES YOU WELL

IT KEEPS YOU WELL

Life is not measured by years, but by health and strength. How many who ought to be in the prime have evidence in looks and feelings of old age. It ought not to be so. Strength and health ought to be as perfect as in youth. If it is not so, something is wrong with you. You have weakened yourself in your mode of life or occupation. Are you shut up all day in the office, house, or factory? Do you stuff yourself with food when your body does not have exercise enough to work it off? While not exactly sick, do you feel out of order, feel languid and tire easily, do not eat or sleep well, have headache, indigestion, sour stomach, constipation, biliousness? Are you feeling nervous, out of sorts, and without your usual energy and strength? You need Kickapoo Sagwa, the Indian Vegetable Remedy for the stomach and liver. We believe that all this chronic ill health is caused by stomach and liver trouble. We believe that very few people can be sick if their digestion is in good order. We know Sagwa will put the

TAKE A SUNSHINE TABLET FOR THY STOMACH'S SAKE

A Woman in Maine Calls Mi-o-na the Sunshine Prescription.

There never was such a remarkable prescription for stomach distress and indigestion as Mi-o-na.

No doctor ever wrote a better one. It's doubtful if any doctor ever will. It's so good that Carter & Sherrill say money back if it doesn't cure.

A woman in Maine calls Mi-o-na the sunshine prescription because she has seen so many sick misers and graying dyspeptics turn into happy, cheerful, sweet human beings in a few days by taking Mi-o-na.

The stomach is responsible for three-fourths of the miseries and half the misery in the world. A woman can have a first-class stomach and feel good to work like a tiger—Mrs. Nelson Lucifer, 112 Park street, Atwood old plays as well as many of the new ones which are to be staged by the stock company.

Local theatre-going people were rather skeptical as to stock production until Messrs. Wright Huntington and John Winthrop of Lowell had carried the city to storm and since then many people have looked forward with fond anticipation to the coming of another stock company equally as good.

No pains will be spared by the management of the Loring Seymour company in order to make the stock company a success and to give the stock company a present last night it is the intention to present a star to participate in the different productions presented from week to week.

Despite the fact that last night's performances was the initial one, the play was received with enthusiasm and spoke well of the capability of the different members of the cast, demonstrating the fact that they are experienced and talented.

The cast of characters was as follows:

Mrs. Ruth Winthrop, Miss Viola Armstrong

Mr. Douglas Winthrop, Miss John Morrissey

Constance Winthrop, Miss Alice Isaacs

Buster Scott, Mr. George Edwards

Mrs. Dick Cetwyne, Miss June Brooks

Edith, (Sister of Constance)

Miss Fern Foster

Herbert, Mr. Marion McHugh, Mr. Albert Bussey

John, (footnote) Mr. Harry Elton

Miss Alice Hayes who portrays the title role starred through the last act west and is much better known in those territories than she is in this vicinity, but her stage appearance and the manner in which she carried out her part last night immediately won her a host of admirers.

She possessed the manner and the necessary for the presentation of the most difficult roles.

Her work is excellent and her appearance splendid.

Mr. John Morrissey as "Douglas Winthrop" has a striking personality and his work throughout was strong and forceful at all times. Miss Viola Armstrong made an excellent "Mrs. Ruth Winthrop," while the difficult as well as humorous role of "Mrs. Dick Cetwyne" was carried out in a capable manner by Miss June Brooks.

The other members of the cast materially assisted in the presentation of the play.

Last year the legislature passed an act cutting down the hours of labor of women and minors from 58 hours a week to 56 hours. Section 2 of that act provided, "This act shall take effect on the first day of January in the year 1910." Before that act has gone into operation, therefore, legislation is proposed for a further cutting down to 48 hours. The manufacturers of the state insist that they cannot stand this further reduction.

The present bill was reported in the house by Representative Lewin of New Bedford.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

A season of vaudeville and moving pictures was inaugurated at the Opera House yesterday afternoon and evening with large attendance. The program offered was a very good one with comedy features predominating.

Heading the bill were Culminius and Gore, billed as vaudeville's funniest pair, in a comedy sketch entitled "Like Mother Used to Make," and introduces Dan Crimmins as the proprietor of a bad restaurant on the Bowery, and Rosa Gore in the guise of a tough girl of the elongated type and in which character Miss Gore's work is both artistic and neat, and from which she changes to a society belle in a remarkably short time. The lines of the sketch are bright and witty, and Crimmins and Gore keep the audience in mirth by their clever work, besides winning generous applause for a pretty medley and dance. Lillian Houston, a pleasing singer, clever dancer, and character change artist, was also a feature of the bill. Richard W. Craig, the German musical comedian, with the graphophone as a partner, contributed a novel comedy act. Two of the latest illustrated songs were rendered by Thomas Sullivan in a decidedly pleasant manner. The pictures offered, which included "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "His First Girl," "The Unconscious Substitute" and "A Belated Meal," are all new here and of the best in fact the picture part of the program was the clearest and best ever offered at the Opera House. The same program will be given today and tomorrow, and on Wednesday there will be an enthralling change of program, both of pictures and vaudeville.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

The Donna Seymour company opened a season of stock at Hathaway's theatre last night, presenting "The Young Mrs. Winthrop," a comedy drama in four acts before a fair-sized and appreciative audience. The house was well filled and the audience will during the present season have ample opportunity to witness some of the good

STAR THEATRE

A long show, including vaudeville, talking pictures, motion pictures, illustrated songs and renditions by the singing orchestra, is being given at the Star Theatre for five cents, and seats are free. No show in Lowell surpasses the length and variety as does the performance at this theatre, which is largely patronized by women and children. Good comfortable seats and excellent ventilating facilities have done much to increase the already heavy attendance.

Jack and Gilla Cainen furnish a comedy act that is a scream. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Miss Marion Gilman, comedienne and Ryan and Douglass, sketch artists, will be seen. Pictures will be changed Wednesday.

WHIST LEAGUE

400 WOMEN TAKE PART IN THE CONTEST

BOSTON, May 4.—Fully 400 women from many sections of the country and all earnest devotees of whist assembled yesterday in the parlors of the Hotel Somerville for the opening play of the twelfth annual congress of the Women's Whist League which was begun today and will continue through the week. Every large whist club was generously represented while most of the smaller organizations sent delegates to make an effort to bring honor to their clubs by carrying on one or more of the several trophies which will be contested for during the week.

The first rounds of play were begun this morning at ten o'clock in an progressive tour for the Washington, Providence, and Boston trophies, and the Philadelphia cup; and for women playing to qualify for the Boston trophy, contest. A special section of the parlors was reserved for play in mixed pairs where men were allowed to compete with the members of the fair sex. All the scoring is in charge of Charles S. Gilman, vice-president of the American whist league.

RHODE ISLAND

CELEBRATED DECLARATION OF WILL NOT BE ORATOR OF THE HAS BEEN TRACED TO THE HUB DAY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 4.—The declaration of independence made by Rhode Island on May 4, 1776, two months prior to that made by the thirteen colonies was celebrated today throughout the state. Although for several years Rhode Island has boasted of having severed its allegiance to Great Britain two months before the country as a whole has celebrated the event with patriotic exercises, today was the first time the passage of the act was officially observed. A diligent search of the records of the legislature made the day a state holiday. The official ceremonies in celebration of the occasion were held in the old state house, in this city where 133 years ago the statesmen of Rhode Island made their original declaration of independence against King George and his successors on the throne of England. A salute of thirteen guns was fired at noon in Providence, Newport, Warren and Bristol, while in all the cities and towns of the state exercises of a patriotic nature were held.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., May 4.—A telegram was received here last night from Colonel Bennett H. Young of Louisville, Ky., leader of the famous Confederate raid of St. Albans during the Civil war, withdrawing his previous acceptance of an invitation to be the orator of the day on July 4 when the St. Albans part of the Champlain tercentenary program will be carried out. Col. Young explains that he withdraws on account of the hostile attitude of some members of the G. A. R. as reported in the newspapers.

In connection with this telegram, the St. Albans committee on tercentenary gave out last night a statement which had previously been prepared for publication to former Governor E. J. Ormsbee and Robert Past G. A. R. of Rutland, who had criticized the selection of the committee in extending the invitation. The statement denies that Col. Young was a guerrilla as had been alleged and offers proofs that the raid was a regularly commissioned officer of the Confederate army. The statement also asks the ex-governor to apologize to Col. Young.

DECISION RESERVED

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—Holding that the trial court erred in striking from the record certain testimony tending to show the intent of the rail road company in accepting a lower rate than that offered by the established freight tariff, the United States circuit court of appeals yesterday reversed the decision of the district court at Los Angeles in the case against the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad in which the company was found guilty on sixty-six counts of restraints of trade and conspiracy to injure the rail road company in accepting a lower rate than that offered by the rail road company in the various track branches.

The trip is expected to occupy three days, Portsmouth, the only New Hampshire city to be visited, being the first stopping place. The itinerary for the succeeding days includes visits to most of the cities of Maine where elaborate plans have been perfected for the reception of the guests. A number of the smaller cities and towns where the tourists have not planned to stop have made arrangements to have excursion trains run to the nearest city on the list of stops in order to participate in the festivities.

A RECONCILIATION

IN THE SHAW CASE IS HINTED AT

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., May 4.—"I expect to return to the east soon with my husband and my son Eldredge," said Mrs. Nettie Shaw, wife of James F. Shaw of Boston, yesterday, when she disregarded the instructions of her attorneys and discussed the affair resulting from her separation with Keno Marble, the Shaw chauffeur, two years ago.

"I received a telegram today which has put an altogether different aspect on this matter, and everything will be straightened out before long. The message was from Mr. Shaw, I know now that I have made a great mistake, and I am going to do all in my power to rectify the wrong I have done. I know I'd better say nothing more at present,"

This statement came as a surprise not only to the public, but to Mrs. Shaw's attorneys and to Marble, who with Mrs. Shaw continues to operate the little theatre at which Mrs. Shaw was selling tickets and chewing gum as usual yesterday afternoon and evening.

H. C. Booth, Mrs. Shaw's chief attorney, refused to discuss the matter in any way and was plainly provoked when he learned that she had spoken about a reconciliation.

Capt. of Police Ross said he expected the separation from Eldredge, who is being held at the chief's home, had more to do with bringing Mrs. Shaw to her son's than anything else.

"She comes to see Eldredge every day," he said yesterday, "and seems very much wrapped up in him. I have no idea if a reconciliation is pending, but due to her own efforts and her desire to have Eldredge with her all the time."

Senators Shaw and H. Fisher Eldredge, Mrs. Shaw's father, are expected here Wednesday, and pending their arrival Mrs. Shaw's counsel has sought postponement of the trial.

The trial is to be held at 10 o'clock on Friday morning.

Cartier & Shepard, Pitts & Shepard and Ellingsworth & Co. will be the defense.

DIED IN STREET

Jas. E. White Succumbs to Heart Disease

The many friends of James E. White of 198 Shaw street, a retired mill overseer, will be pained to learn of his sudden death which occurred last evening in Westford street as he was returning from a meeting of Mt. Horch Royal Arch chapter, of which he was a member.

Mr. White was walking along the sidewalk when he was seen to fall by Leon Hitchcock of 282 Westford street. The latter with a friend ran to his assistance and picked him up. He had struck his head on the curbing, sustaining a large cut on the forehead. Dr. Sweetser was called from his home nearby, but upon his arrival the man was dead. At this time an auto passed rapidly down the street and this fact, together with the cut on Mr. White's forehead, gave rise to widespread but inaccurate rumor that he had been run down and killed by an automobile.

The body was removed to the establishment of J. F. O'Donnell & Sons, where it was identified by means of personal effects in his pockets. His relatives were immediately notified.

He was about 75 years of age, and had been retired for over three years. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Willard E. Symonds, with whom he lived at 19 Shaw street, and two other daughters, Mrs. Annie Pritcham of Shirley and Miss Jessie E. White of Boston, at present connected with the Boston Y. M. C. A. school. He was a Knight Templar, belonging to a commandery in the south.

Mr. John Powers of A. W. Dows drug store returned to work Tuesday morning after enjoying a two weeks' vacation.
